Central has traditionally offered various courses geared to the abilities of all students. The faculty, being part of this tradition, is always interested in the individual students and their accomplishments.

With many different classes to choose from no student has had difficulty in choosing his courses. Math has been a valuable part of every student's education. High school math to calculus. Every Central student had the opportunity to study a foreign language under the direction of well-qualified teachers. The teachers of Central's English department have done their best to give all their students a thorough knowledge of the subject. In the social studies department at Central were such diverse courses as introduction to social studies, world history, United States history, and government. Science courses not only included experiments, theories, and laws, but also an entire way of thinking. Courses in fine arts gave students the opportunity to develop special skills and talents. Students have also been able to receive training in various vocational fields. Physical education courses broke up the daily routine of classes and permitted students to have fun while they developed firm, strong muscles.

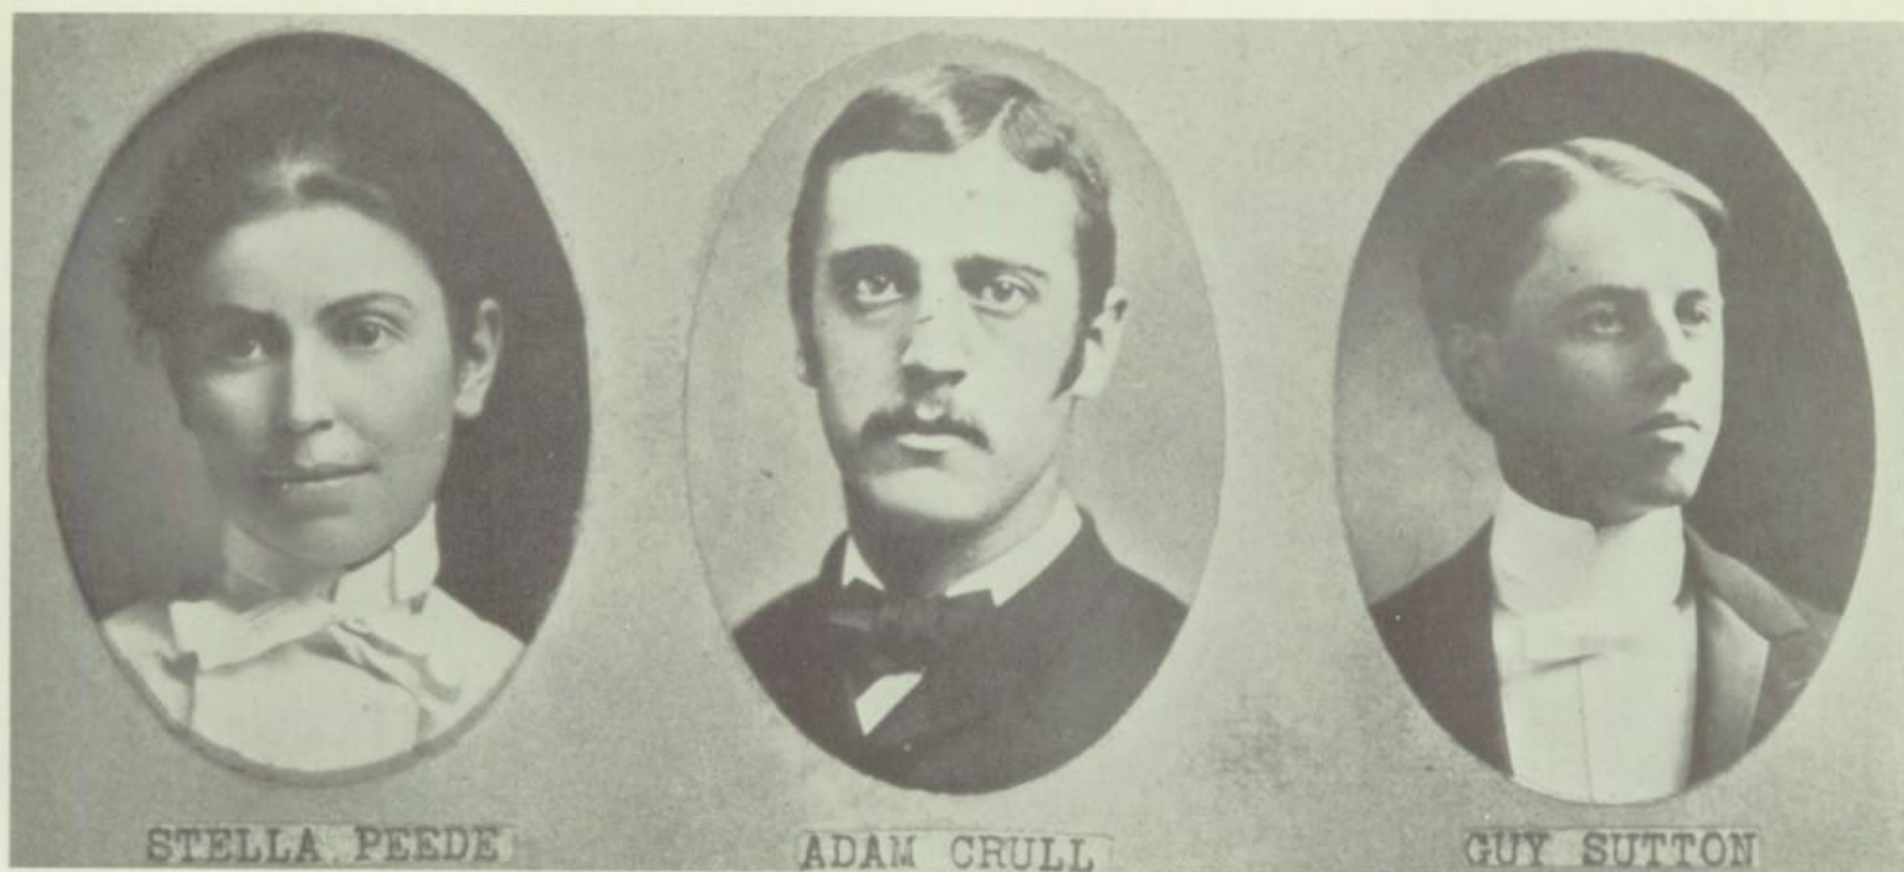

Our preparation for the future has been developed in the halls of Central. With many thought demanding and practical courses Central students have the key to success.

Administration Patterns Our Lives

Mr. Hafner isn't entirely new at Central.
He was a member of the 1940 graduating class.

IBM cards are checked over by Mr. Morningstar.

During his two short years as our principal, Mr. Roy L. Hafner has managed to adapt to the routine of life here at Central. Mr. Hafner has been a symbol of school spirit, and a symbol of confidence to everyone. Although burdened with several office duties he can be seen exchanging conversation with Central students and teachers each day.

With the help of Mr. George Daniels, assistant principal, and Mr. Clyde Morningstar, head guidance counselor, Mr. Hafner has provided the leadership and friendship necessary in shaping the future for our student body. All three have worked together thinking only in terms of the good of the school.

Along with Mr. Hafner, Mr. Daniels works to help set up the school policies.

Efficiency Emphasized by Our Staff

Central's office workers spent each day of the 1969-70 school year filing reports, handing out admits, and making announcements over the P.A.

Our counselors were very helpful in giving us the guidance which is so important to our future lives. Changing schedules, selecting college information, and showing the path for question-filled freshmen were just a few of the tasks our guidance counselors were faced with each day.

Mrs. Beghtel was ready to assist any student in need of typing paper, pencils, or replacing a lost book. Because of our efficient staff, arising problems were easily solved.

Keeping daily attendance records is a full time job, well handled by Mrs. Stuben.

Making the morning announcements and also in charge of the main office is Mrs. Moon.

Mrs. Beghtel, in charge of the bookstore, dispenses books and other supplies to students.

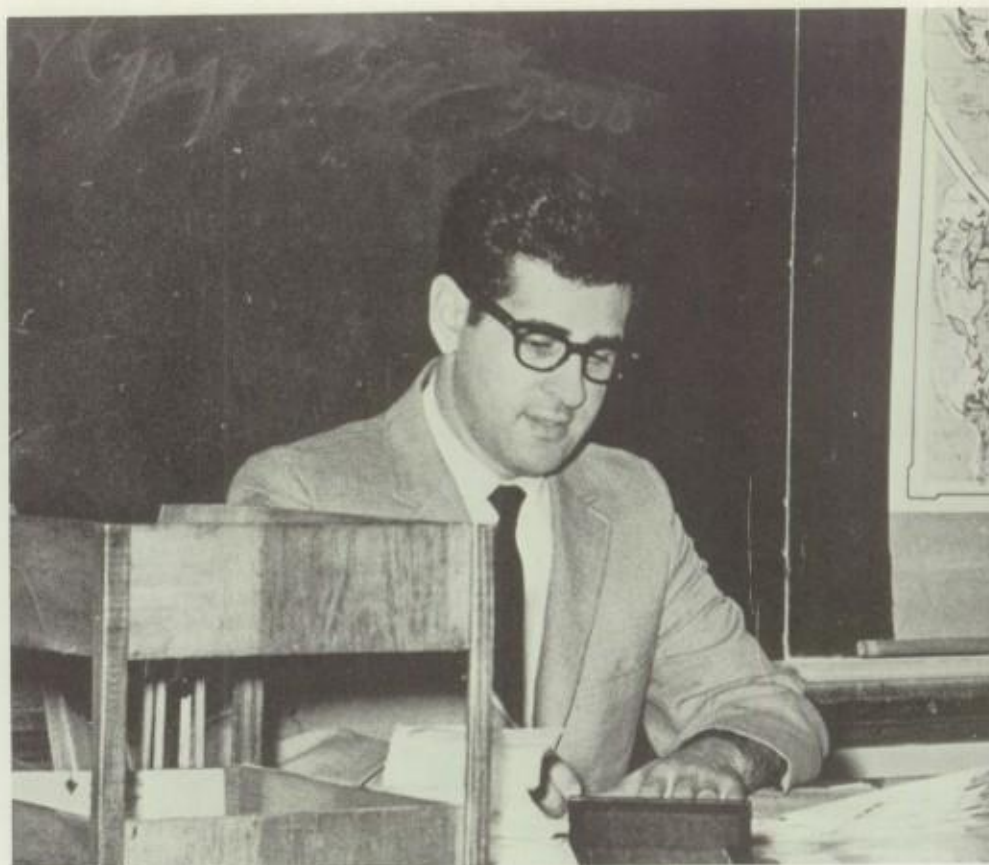

Helping the underclassmen with their schedules is Mr. Fox.

Miss Raben, junior class counselor, helps juniors choose classes for their senior year.

Students needing any type of help were able to find it somewhere because of our hard workers. Sick people were nothing new in Mrs. Foulk's daily routine. Many times throughout the day she could be seen handing out band-aids, aspirins, and exit passes.

Never was a Centralite seen without something to eat during the lunch hours. Our cafeteria staff made sure that everyone was served the best choice of foods.

Central was kept beautiful by our cutodians. They were also helpful to individuals in case of emergenices, such as a student in need of opening a jammed locker.

With the help of these people we were well cared for.

The Workers That Keep Central Organized

Mrs. Teah and Mrs. Wagner, our librarians, sort out library cards.

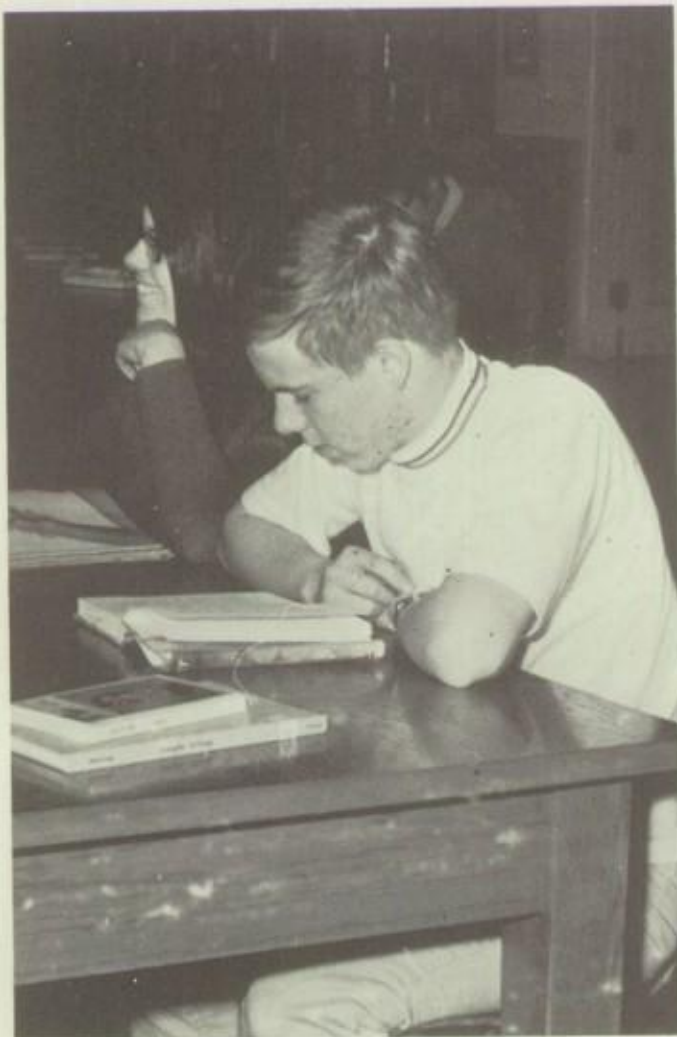

A splinter is removed from Beth Williams' hand by our school nurse, Mrs. Margaret Foulks.

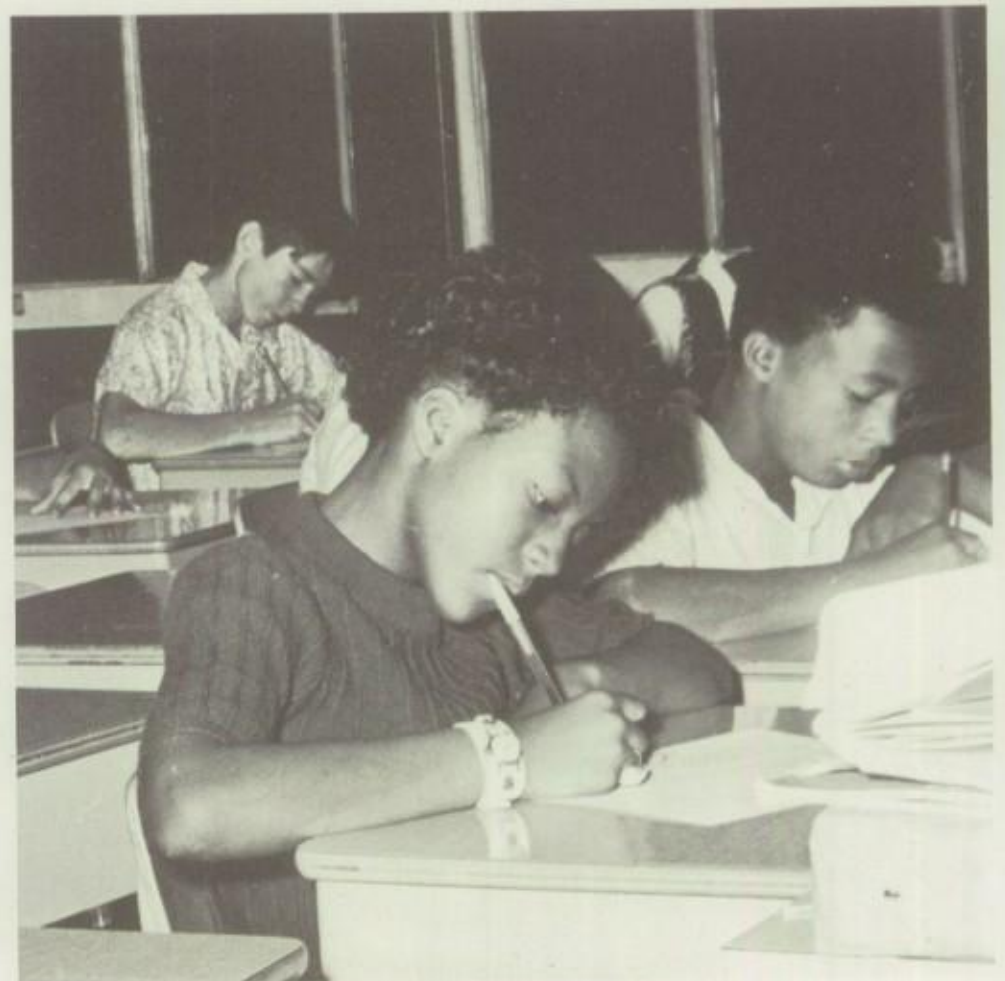

Miss Bergan's 6th hour class works on a discussion. SEATED ARE: Jim Fischer, Mark Wozniak, Bill Lampos, Neal Wozniak, Larry Blake, Rex Husband, and Larry Walker.

Taking time to study their English in the library are Nancy Dhaene and Jim Fischer.

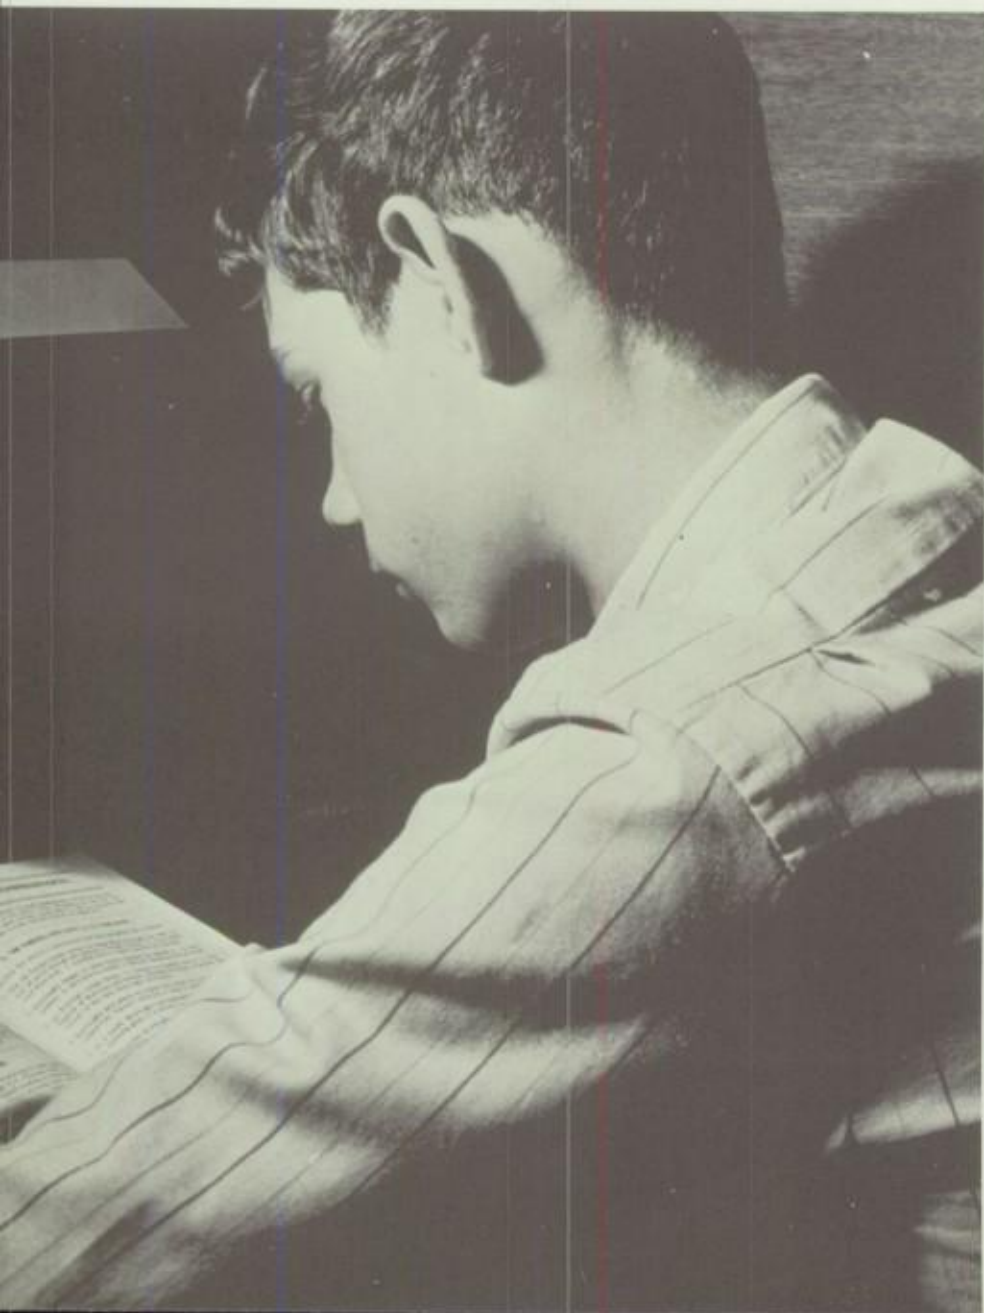

Students from Miss Paulson's freshman English class work busily.

Assistance is given to Bonita Blake by her teacher, Mr. Nelson.

Techniques of speed reading are studied by Ron Williams.

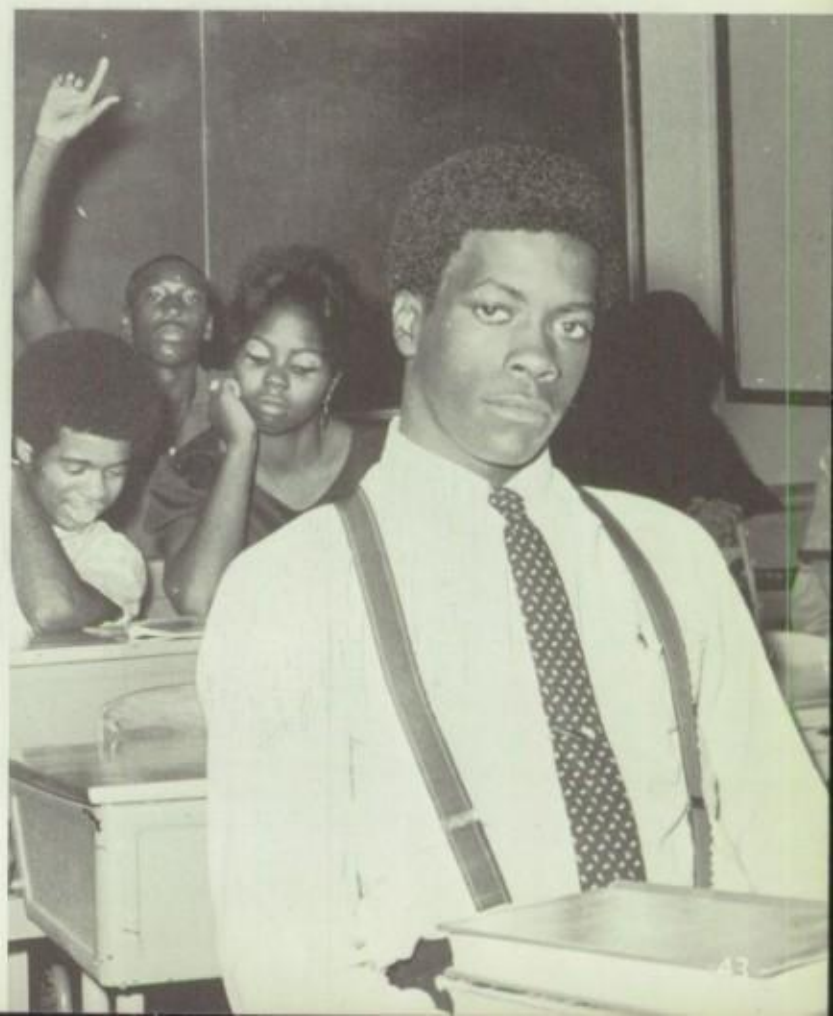

New Senior English Program

Central seniors were introduced to a new type of English program this year. Unlike the underclass, who are assigned one specific English course per year, the seniors were able to choose from several new and intriguing courses. They were given the opportunity to study new cultures and literature never before offered. Writing courses were also offered which were beneficial to college bound students.

Central's English teachers know what it takes to be successful throughout school life. This is why they have always been so insistent in making sure that their students receive top quality instruction. Students are taught to better their English skills through practice in reading, writing, and oral presentations. For this reason, Central students are better prepared for the future.

In response to Mr. Kelly's question, Mike McKinney raises his hand, as David Smith, MaryAnn Wilson and Charles Nicholson look on.

Language Courses Offer Insight Into Foreign Cultures

By reciting their French lesson to each other, Monica Radecki, Julie Hotop, and Beth Wilson are able to better their speaking.

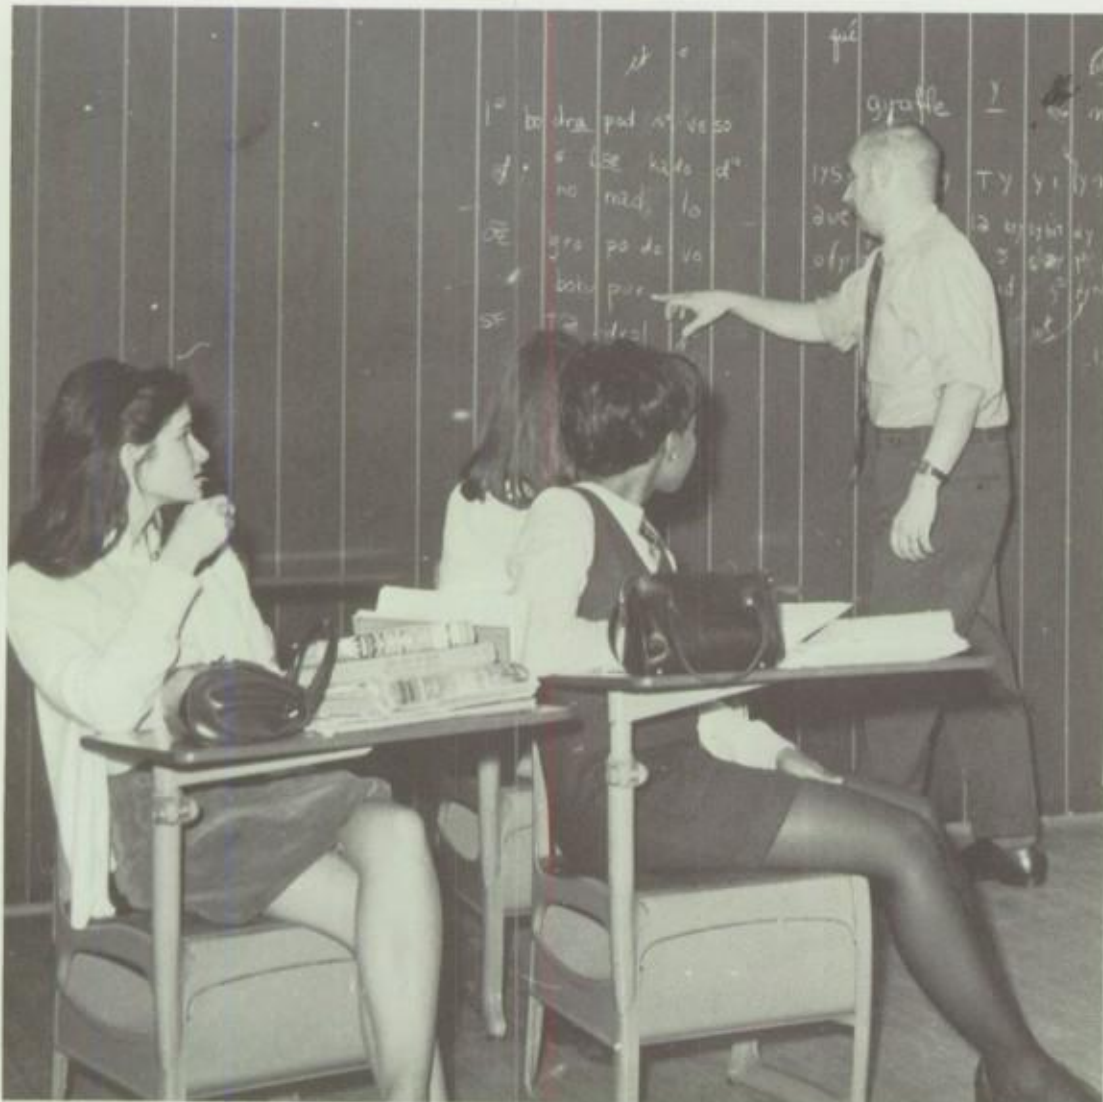

Julie Wilkins, Larry Gooden, Dave Potts, Curtis Bethany, and Cheryl Truex in Mr. O'Leary's 4th hour German I class.

Jonathan Harris, Georgia Bell, Wendy Walker, and Melvin Johnson follow along with Dr. Aguero in the Spanish lesson.

French lessons written on the wall are explained by Mr. Badry to Angela Strong and Lela Giger.

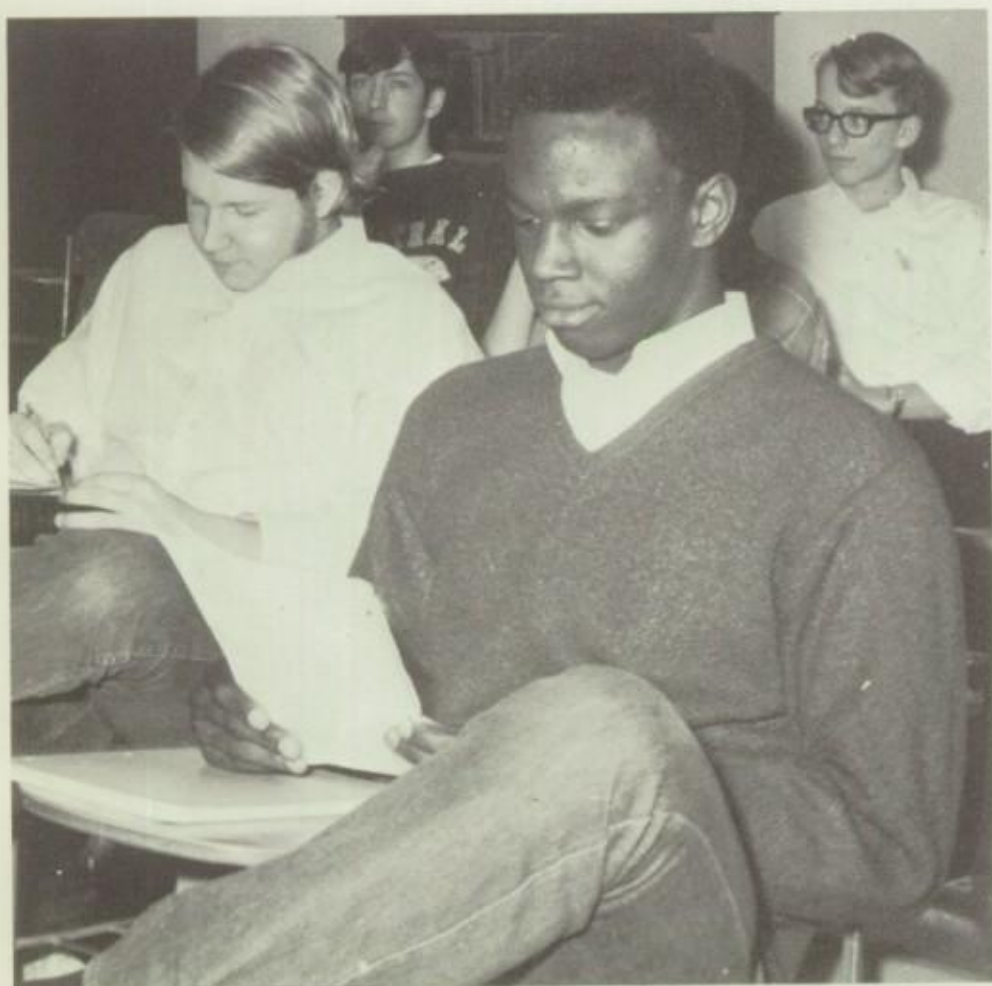

At least two years of any foreign language is required for those planning to attend college. Central offers a variety of languages, including French, German, Spanish, and Latin. Each one may be studied a total of four years.

When first being introduced to a new language, students may find it quite hard to contend with. But the practice and repetition of verb conjugation and oral recitation soon enable the student to master the language almost as good as his own. Of course, the students were assisted with books, magazines, recordings, and films, which helped to liven up the subject.

With the beginning of each new day it becomes more important to acquire the skill of speaking a foreign tongue. Central's language department makes it possible for interested students to communicate with people all over Europe.

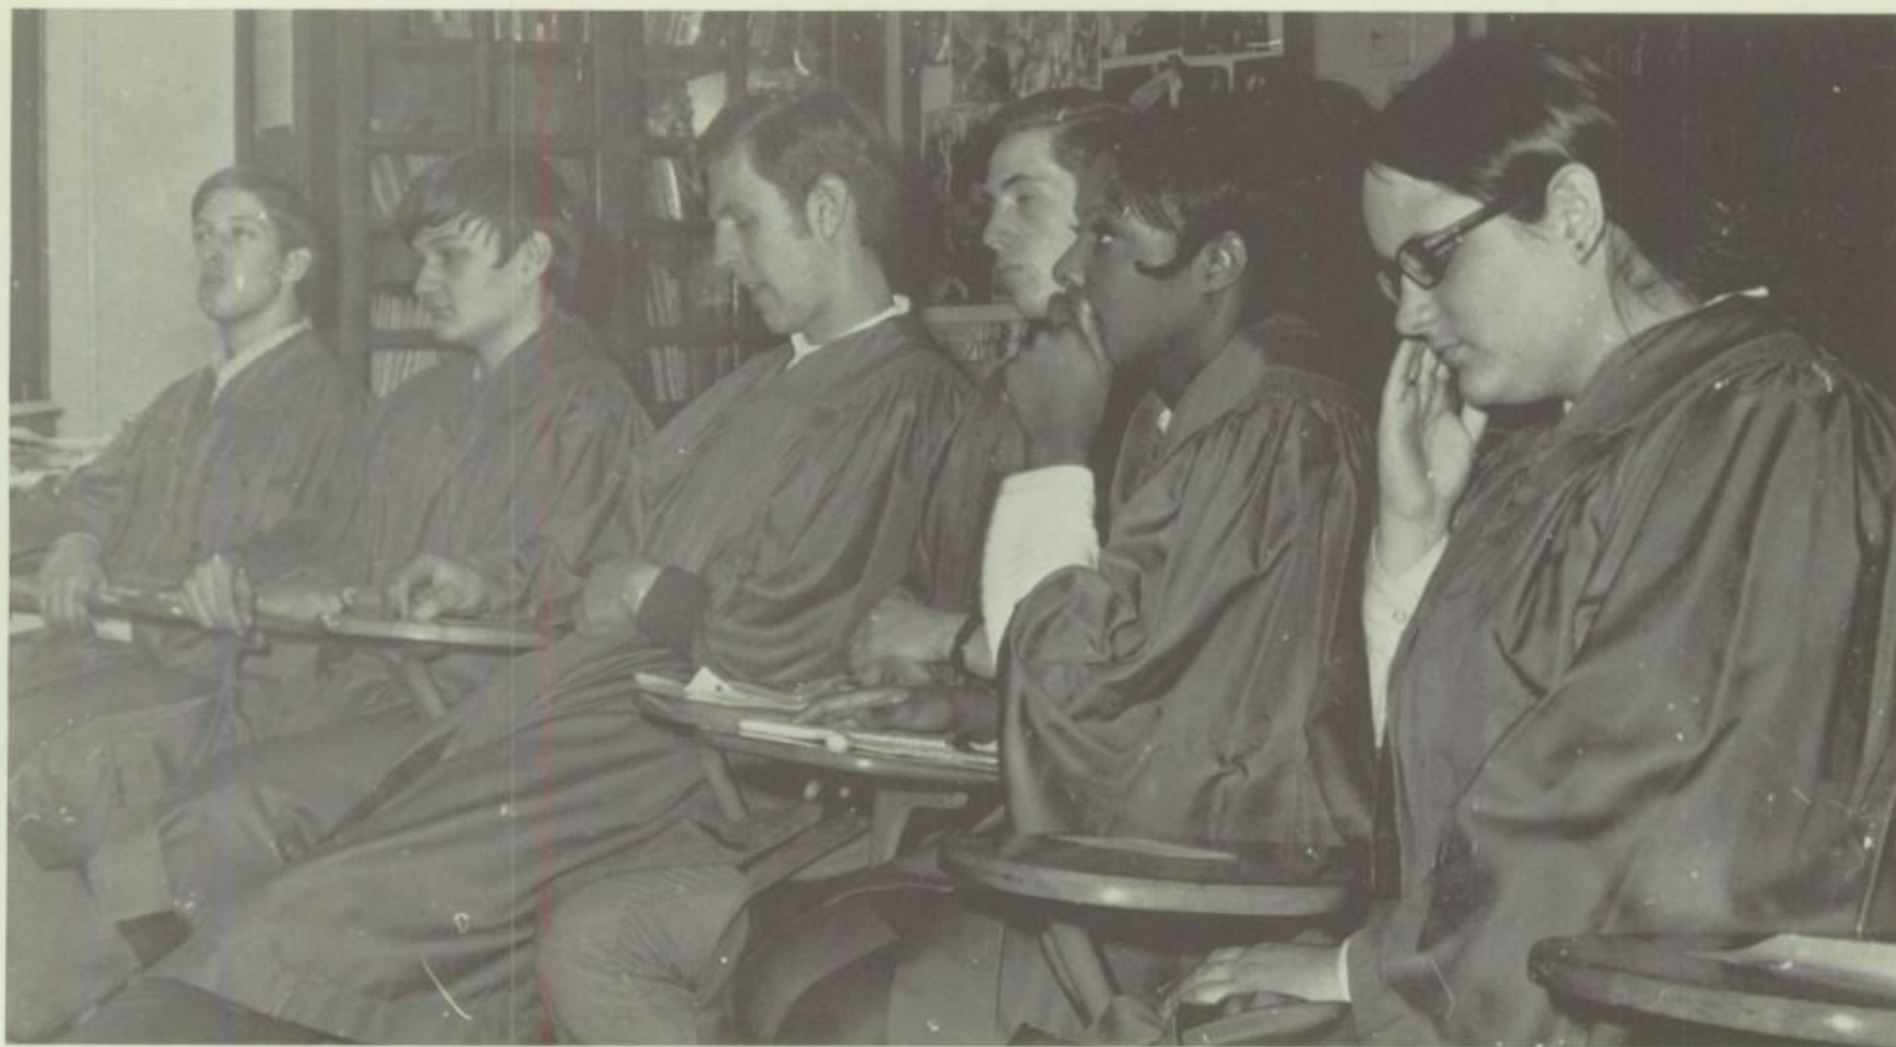

Dave Bilinski, Jackie Sikorski, Larry Countryman, Beverly Draper, Cathy Hall, Richard Basney, and Kenny Fleming in Mrs. Clements' 3rd hour U.S. History class.

United States History is a required course for juniors. Taking notes are John Montgomery, Larry DeFreeuw, Wayne Johnson and Charles Vaughn.

Thoughts are pondered by Stan Paluszewski.

Looking properly serious are Dan Smith, Dan Schoen, Jim Garges, John Rivers, Barb Milon, and Julie Hotop, as they play the part of the Supreme Court justices in Mr. Catanzarite's 5th hour class.

Mr. Clements gives instructions to his class as Karen Marcotte looks on.

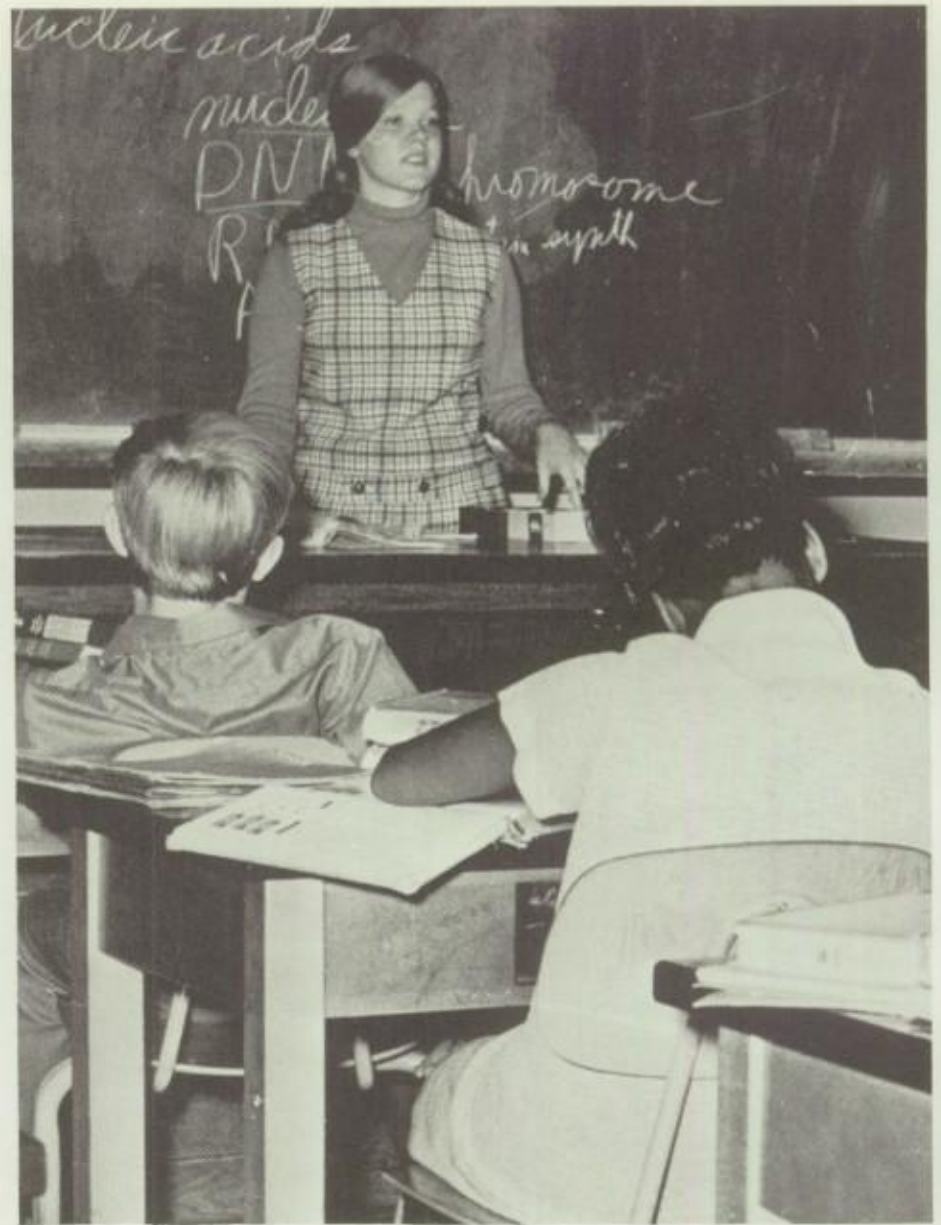

Social Studies Department Includes Well-Rounded Program of Study

Social Studies courses have given us a broader outlook into the past, present, and future. Introduction to social studies was offered to freshmen, who were taught the basics of American history. Some sophomores continued with World history where the facts of nations besides our own were revealed. United States history was studied by most of Central's junior class. In this course students learned about the development of our country. Courses offered to seniors included government and sociology, and contemporary society. Here they were taught the fundamentals of our government and society.

Students Find Science Courses Interesting and Difficult

One of Central's finest institutions is the science program. Freshmen who were just getting the feel of science were given a choice of Physical science or Biology 1. Health education is a requirement for graduation usually taken by sophomores. Here they are taught the basics of personal health. Those interested in Biology were surprised to learn they could extend their knowledge by taking Biology 2. In Chemistry classes students performed experiments in the lab and analyzed the composition of various matter. Those wishing to go on, took Physics. In this class a great deal of mathematical background was needed in order to apply the physical laws of matter which they studied.

Facts about plant and animal life are taught to Jack Grey and Diane Freeland in Biology class.

Larry Scott, Sharon Love, Fay Harper and Rick Fouts study the basics in Health class.

An interesting science project is shown to the class by its creator, Jim Shaw.

Working with the microscope is a part of Biology class, as shown by Barbara Loy and Nancy Truex.

At first Math seemed like a challenging subject to all of us. As we progressed through the several stages we began little by little to understand the mysteries of solving algebraic equations and geometric dimensions.

Included in the Central curriculum are several Math courses. Freshmen start off by taking either High School math or Algebra 1. For a broader knowledge in this field most students also studied Geometry. Students favoring the former went on to extend their knowledge by signing up for Algebra 2, which also includes Trigonometry. After mastering the use of sines, cosines, tangents, and cotangents, some enjoyed the study of Mathematics well enough to take Calculus in their senior year.

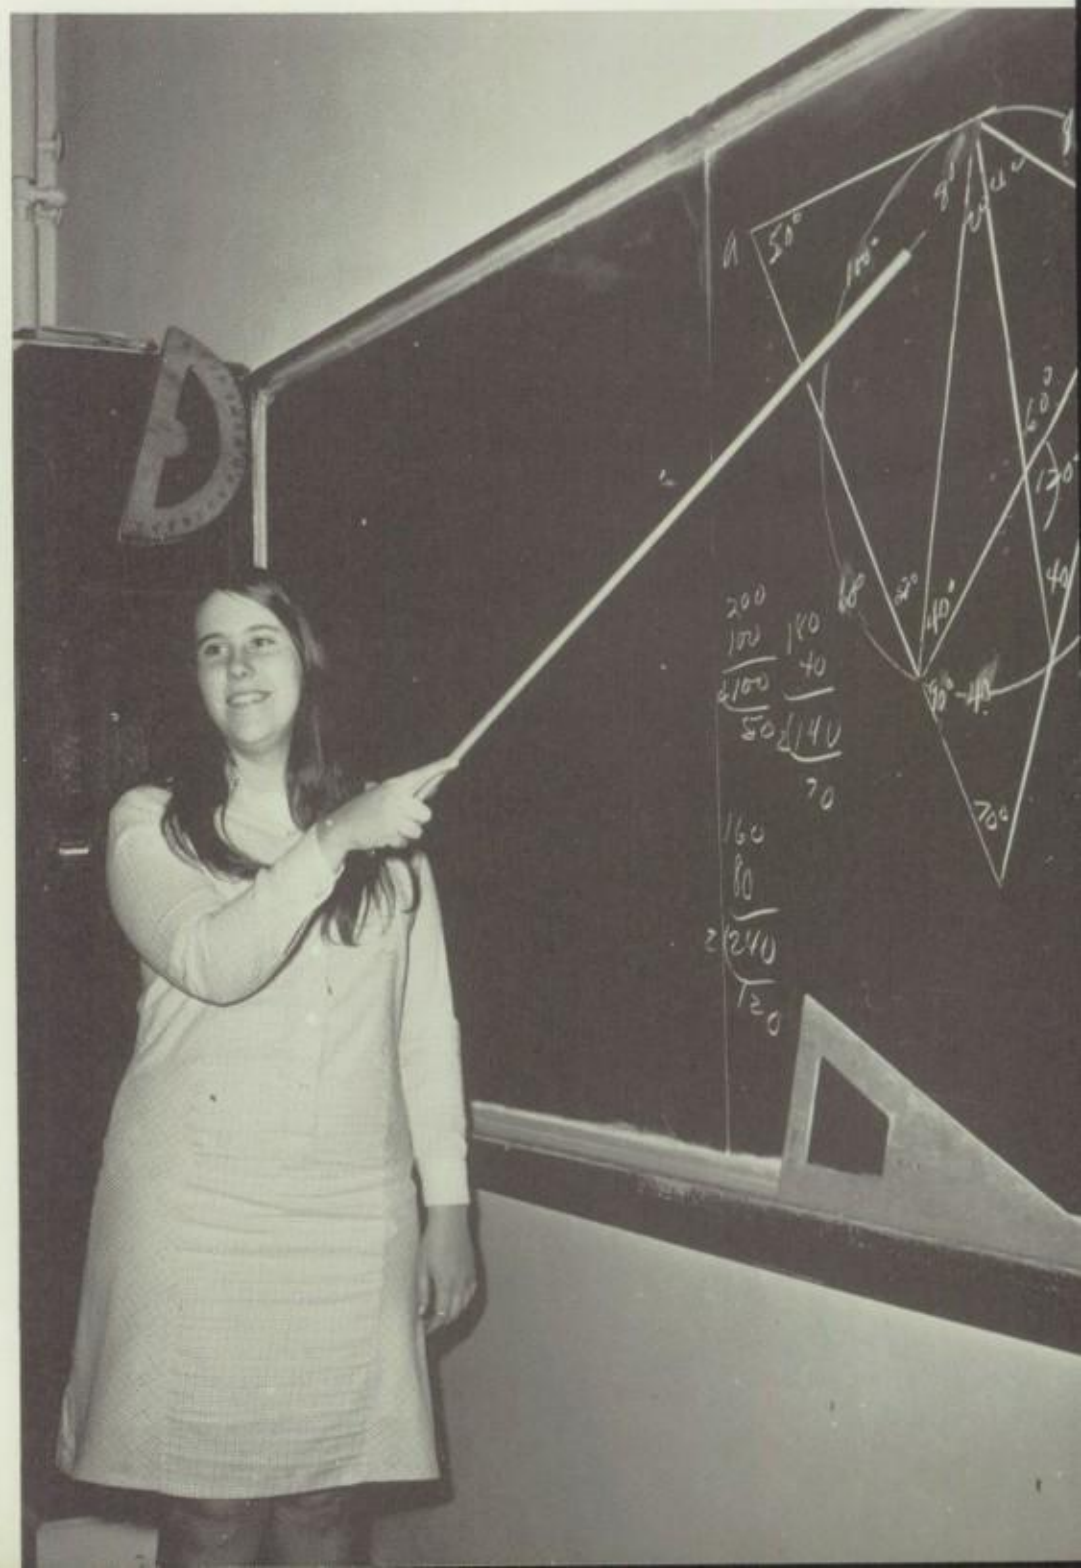

Diane Lane puts Geometric skills to use.

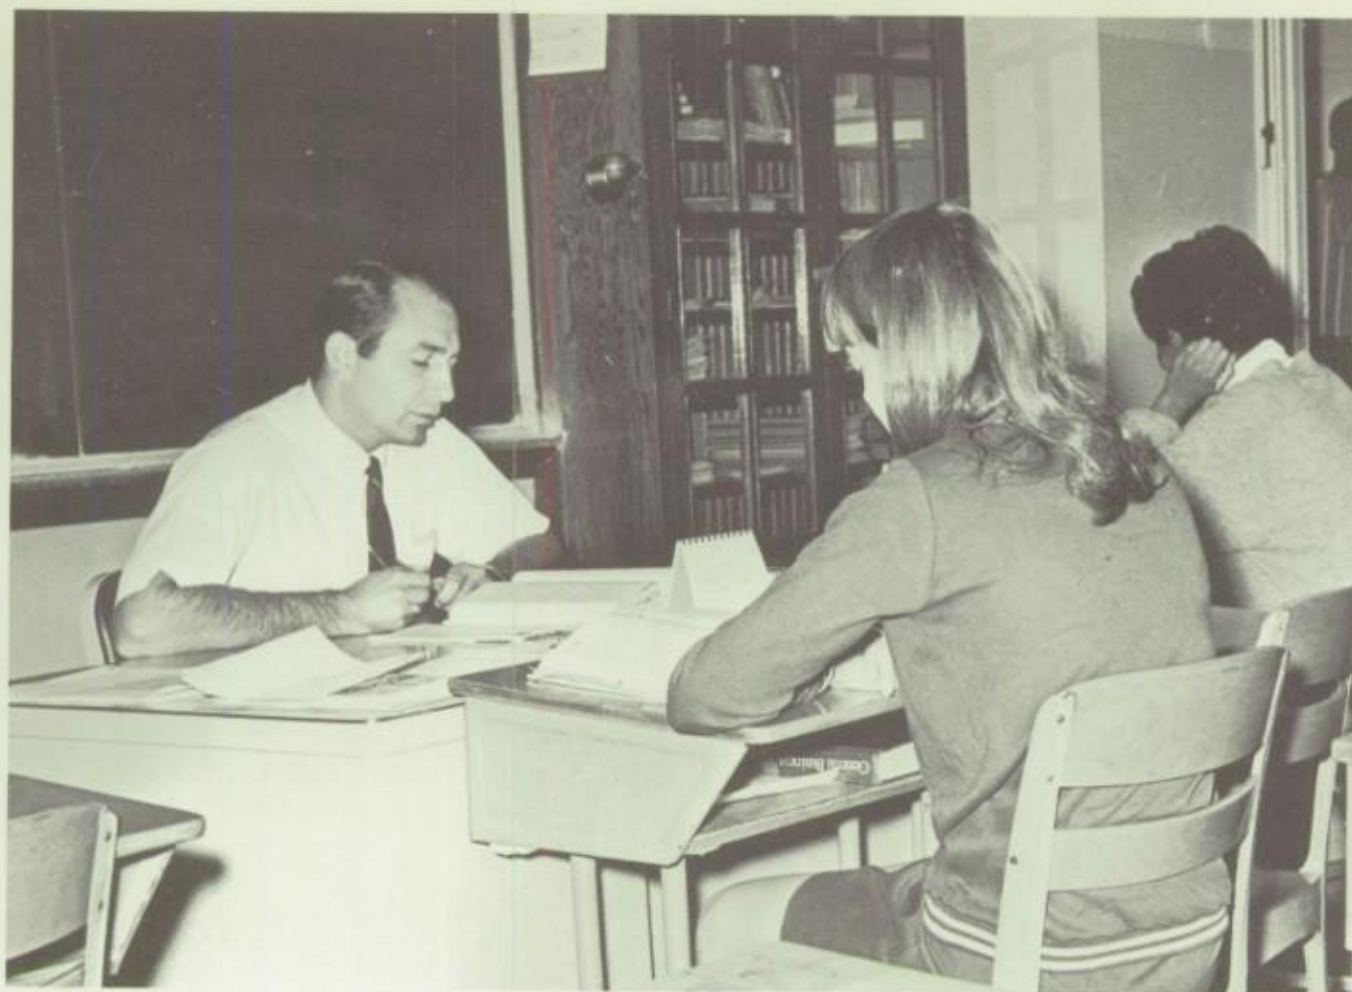

Explanations are given by Mr. Schlundt.

Chris Pender, Carl Jenkins, and John Montgomery follow along with their books in Mr. Kindy's class.

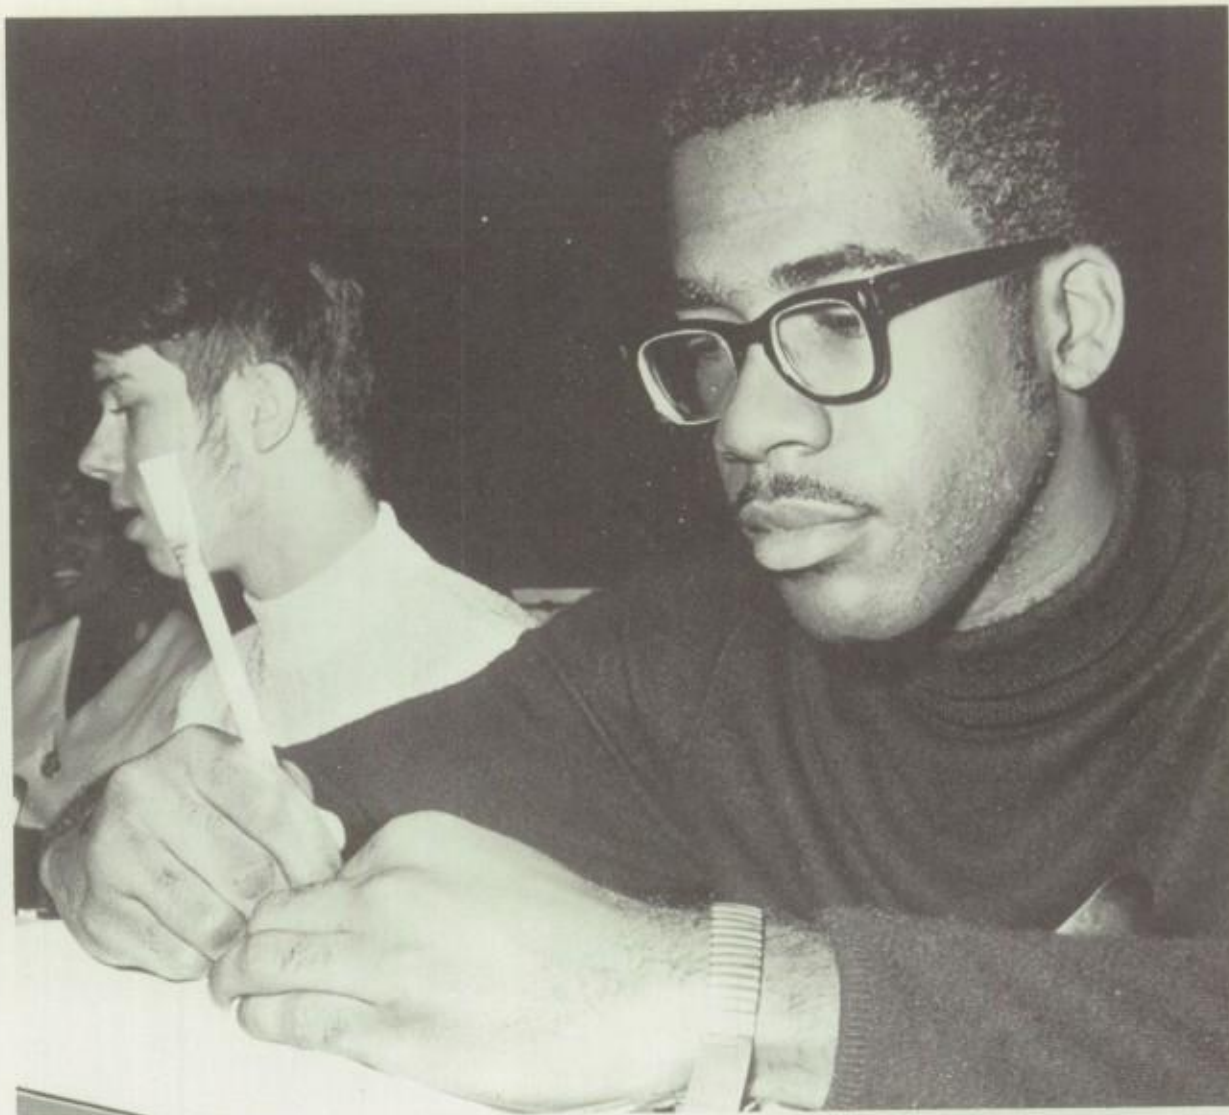

Mathematical Concepts Become Challenging

Algebra problems are explained to Debbie Six and Rhonda Minnis in preparation for future work.

By the look on Mr. Schlundt's face, he is puzzled by one of the questions asked by his students. Seated are Shawann Hockmann, Lamar Strong, John Free, Angie Burgess and Maxine Morris.

Students Lay Foundations for Business Futures

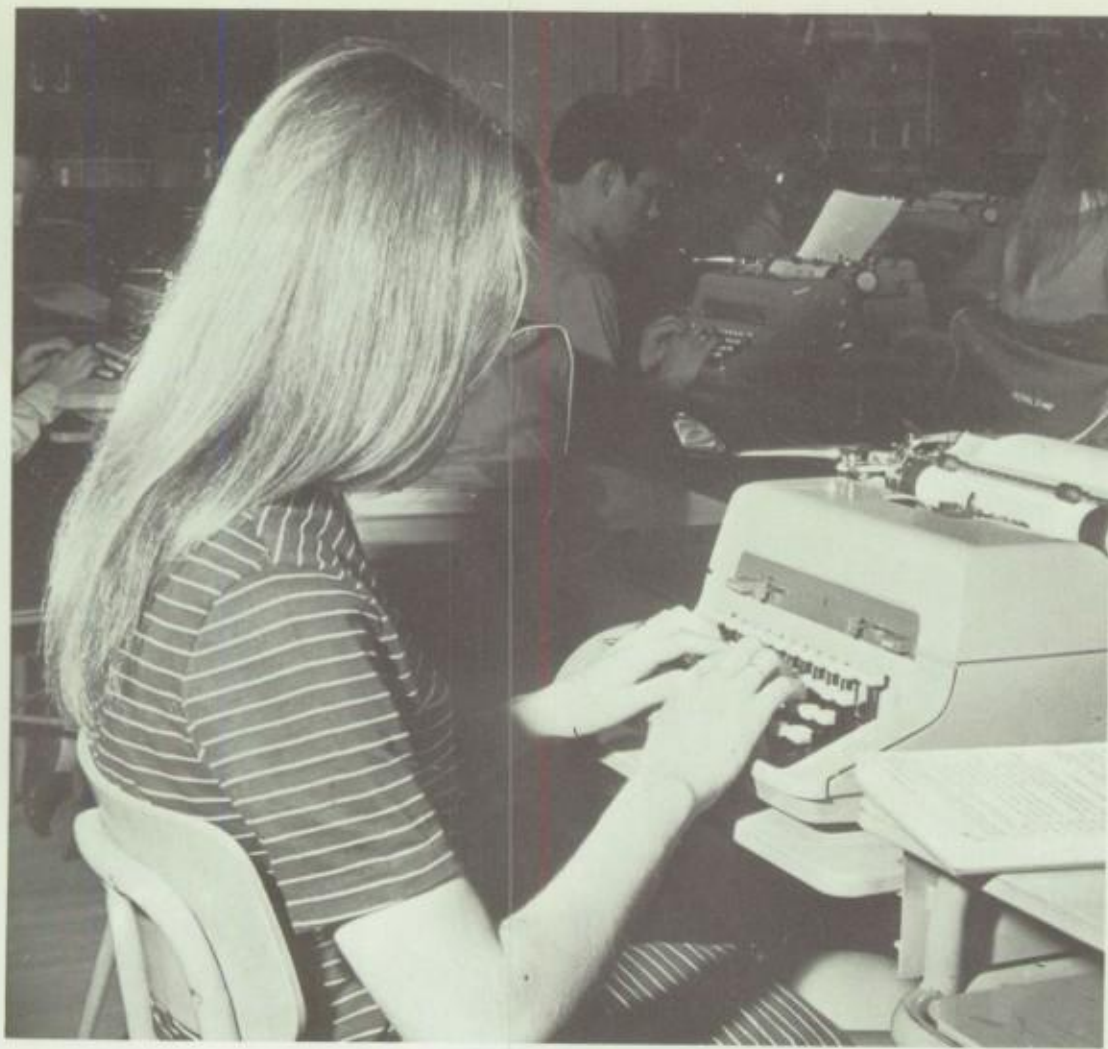

While learning to type, Lynn Batchelor discovers that correcting typing errors is also a part of the course.

Cindy Jambor types "full steam ahead."

Seated are: Lela Giger, Lena Simpson, Sharon Mitchell, and Pam McMorris.

Practicing her typing diligently is Patricia Porter.

At least one year of typing is required before students are able to further their business skills. This comes in handy even to those not planning a future in this line of work. They find that in a few short years their typing skills come in handy while typing college papers. This is also true with the short hand course. Rapid note taking is beneficial in college. Office training offers the basic necessities for office work and also teaches the use of various machines. General business is a valuable course for pre-secretarial occupations.

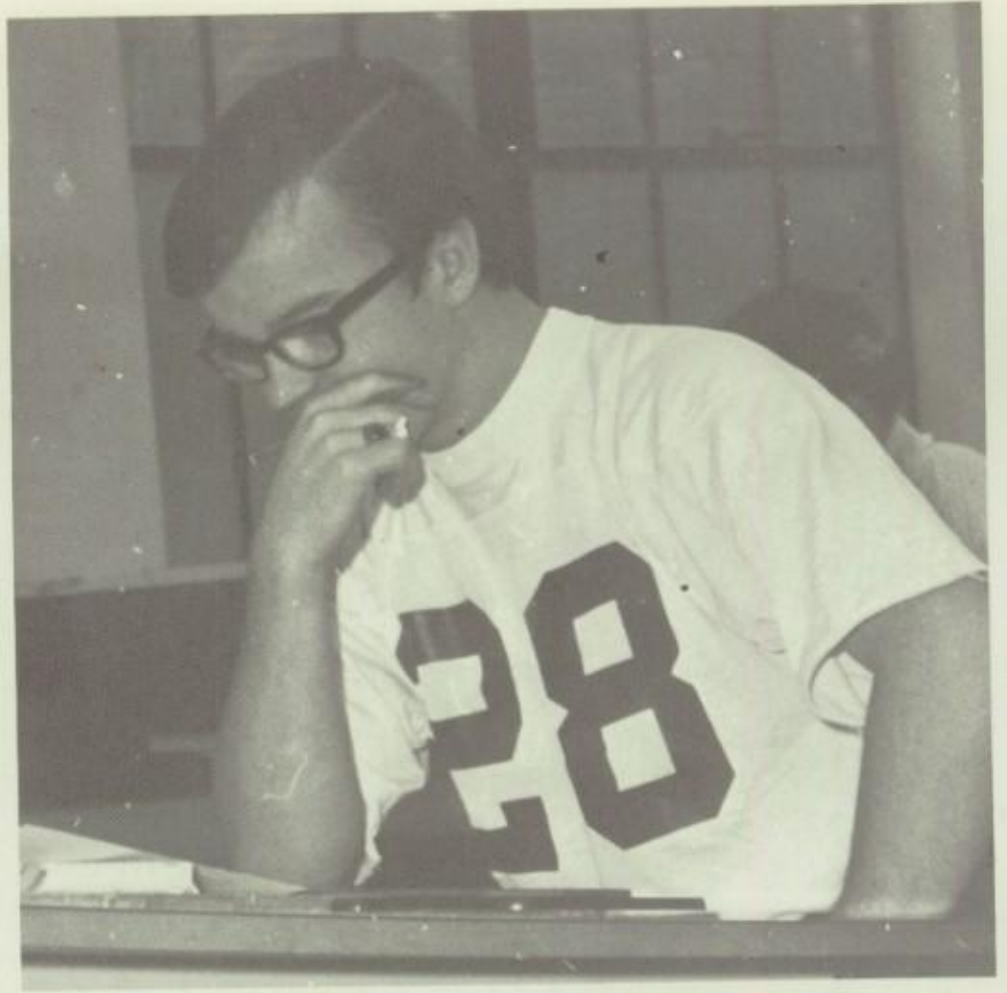

Over a period of years students find that little by little they have mastered what seemed impossible to their once nimble fingers during the first few months of practice. Finally they realized that it was well worth the time and effort.

Members of the Co-op: Debbie May, Mary Zielinski, Sherri Rockwell, Mary O'Neal, Julie Kotoske, Julie Imler, Kathy Wishin, Maria Lacopo, and Liz Rekos.

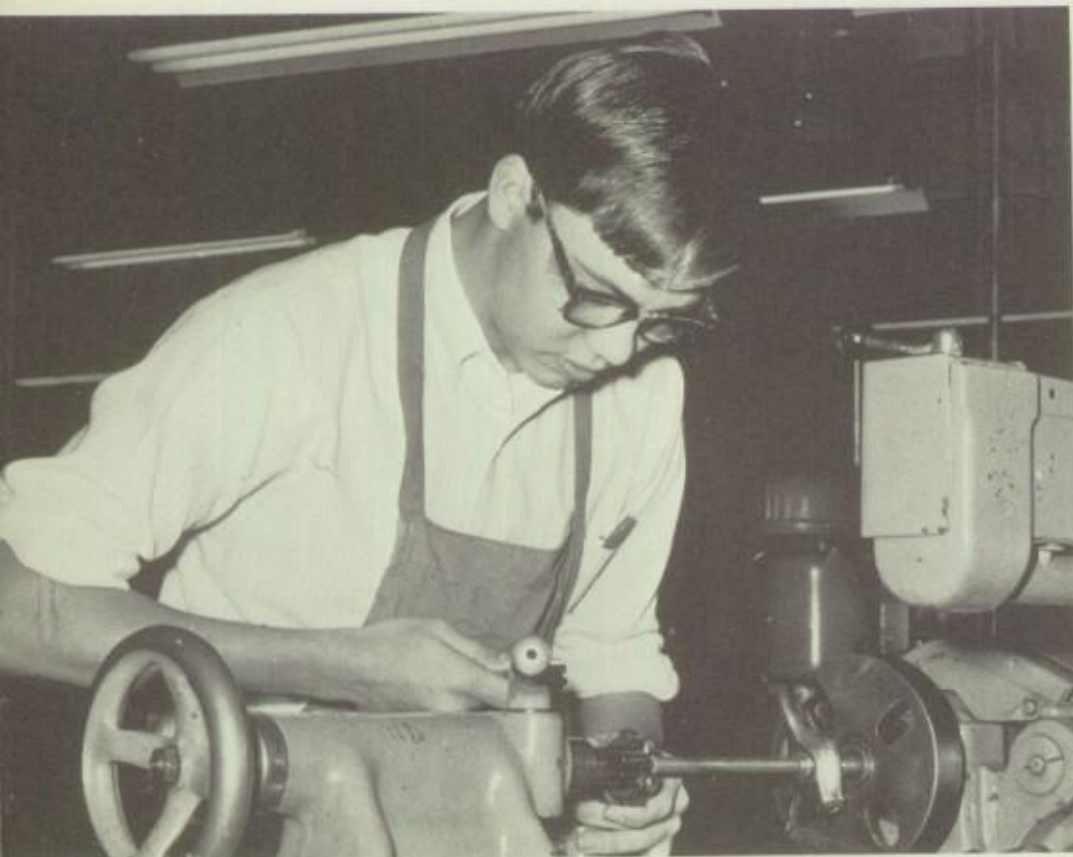

Talents Developed Toward Skills

Many of the young men at Central have been able to gain valuable experience through Industrial Arts classes. There are several job opportunities in store for students learning such skills as working on autos, drafting, welding, or mechanical drawing. Blow torches, goggles, drafting boards, T-squares, and other similar tools are a part of the daily life of the industrially inclined student. By taking such courses, students could see the benefit of the experience they received.

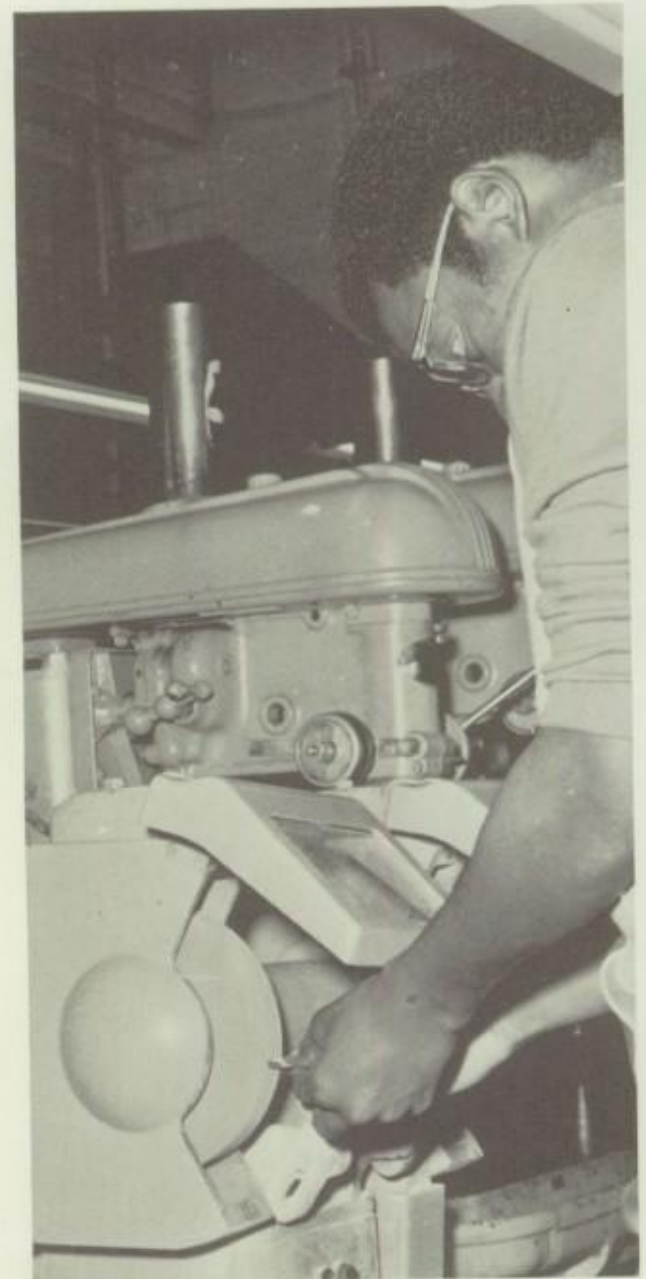

Mike Bell contemplates a problem in his drafting class.

Learning how to use various machines is part of today's schooling. Richard Basney demonstrates.

Ronnie Coleman displays his knowledge at the use of his machine.

Carl works in welding class.

Jim Frame and Leonard Williams learn welding techniques.

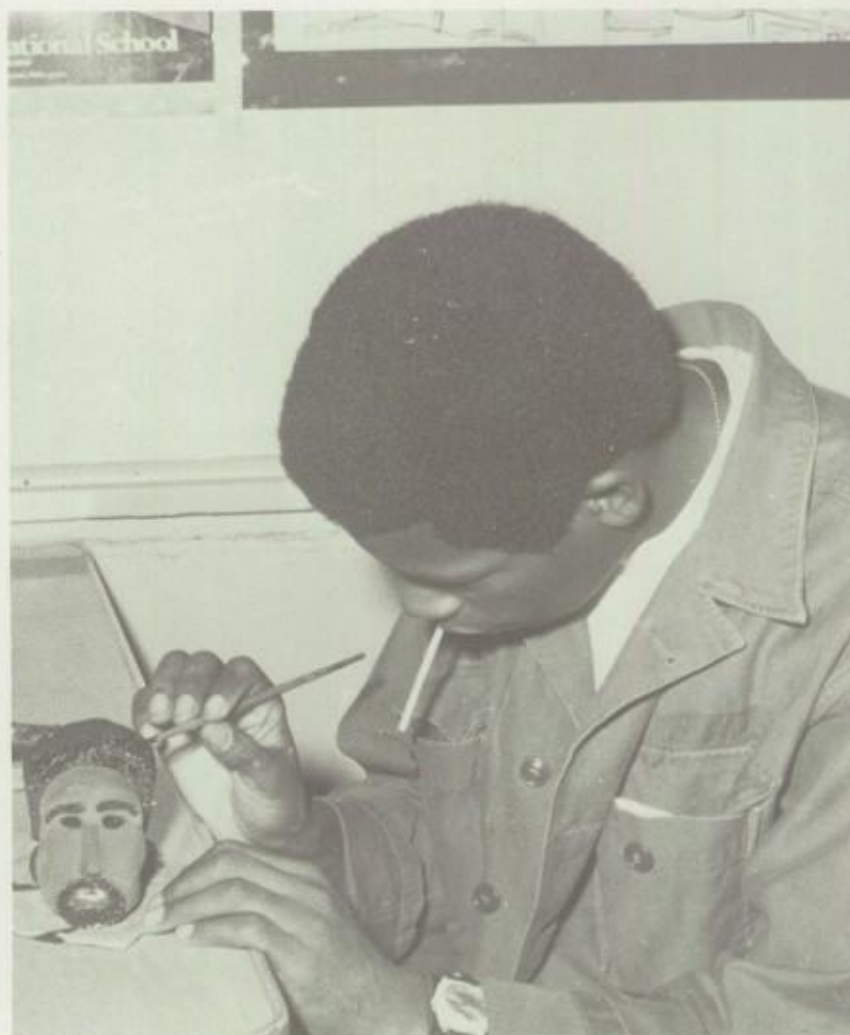

Sculptures made of clay are fun to make. Just ask Helen Hess or Ed Perry.

Instructions are given by Mr. Kitkowski.

Larry Anderson learns how to paint in 6th hour class.

Ceramic glazes are used by John McBride in Mr. Marvin's Ceramics and Sculpture class.

Working with clay in Mr. Kitkowski's 5th hour class are Jim Hanskits, Nancy Six, and Roger Adank.

Art . . . A Form of Expression

Tom Gravenor and Arthur Moore wedge clay before working on the wheel.

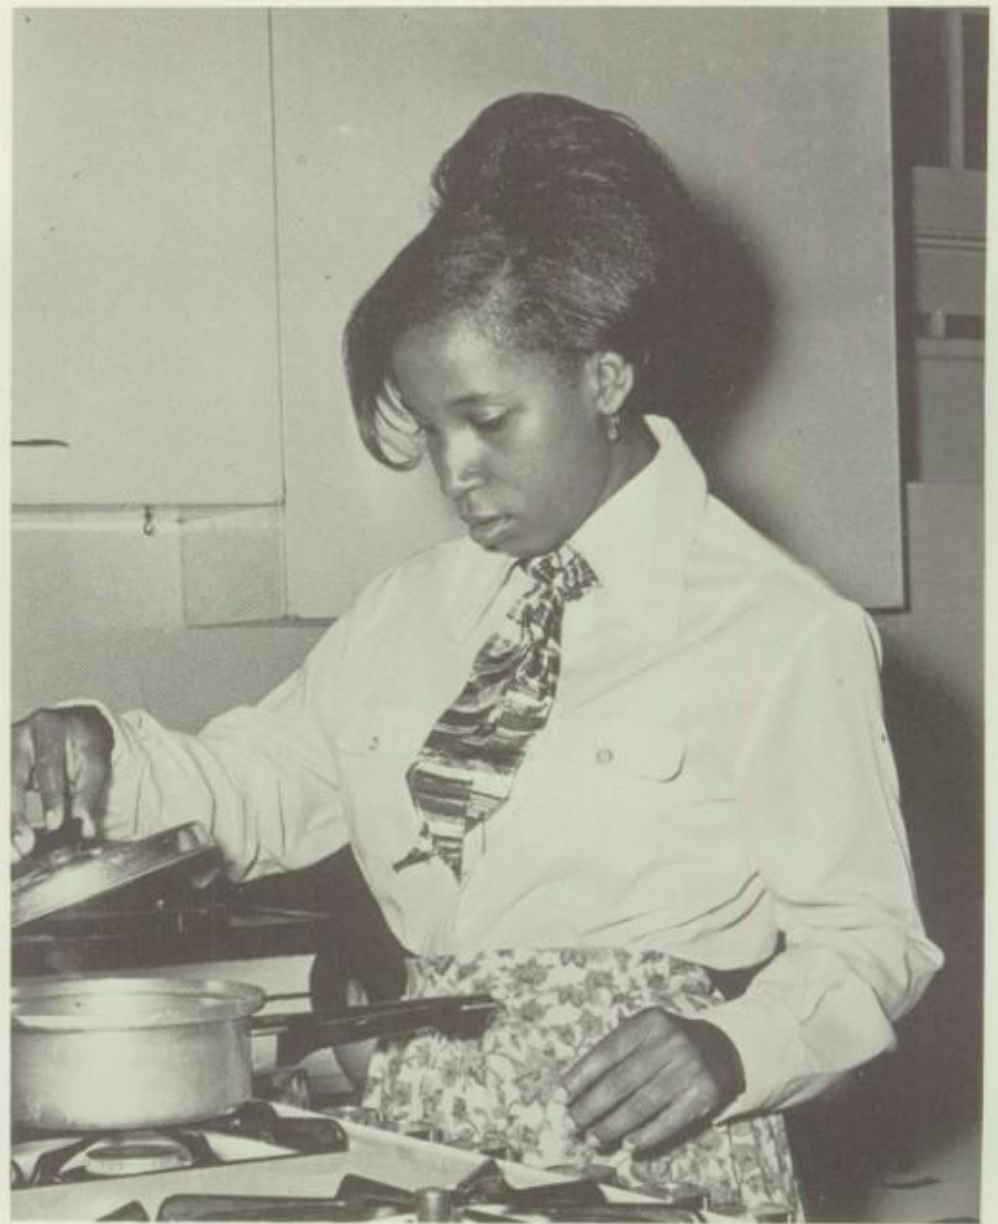

Art is a form of expression. Because so many art classes are offered at Central, students were able to express themselves in many different ways. Basic art is usually required in order to give the student an introduction to what is in store for the future. Afterwards a student was able to choose from such courses as Commercial Art, Ceramics and Sculpture, Painting, Drawing and Graphics, and Creative Crafts.

With proper instruction, Art students were able to portray their feelings whether by using paints, clay, or other materials. Even for the untalented, art classes were found interesting.

Girls Prepare for the Future

In order to prepare students for their future home life, Central includes Home Economics in its curriculum. In sewing classes girls learn to lay out patterns, put in zippers, and sew the material together. The result is a beautiful piece of clothing. In addition to this, some students take foods classes. Here they learn to prepare many delicious foods, whether it be snacks or a full course dinner. Future homemaking is studied in family living, another home economics course.

Students taking home economics courses enjoy them so much that they think of sewing and cooking as hobbies rather than classes.

Some kind of delicious food is prepared by Doris Span in Miss Heuman's 1st hour class.

Taking time to iron their newly made garments are Debbie Six and Linda Lane in Miss Hubertz's class.

Valorie Harden and Rosalind Ellis lay out a pattern.

At the sewing machine is Cathy Henderson.

Warm up exercises mark the beginning of each physical education class. Students exerted themselves in order to develop strong bodies. There were, of course, several ways in which we developed our bodies into good physical shapes. Basketball, volleyball, weight lifting, ping-pong, swimming, and square dancing are only a few of the activities we did during each fun-filled gym class. Strong minds and bodies were the result of physical education classes.

Instructions are given by Miss Mathews to Marsha Neal who is taking part in a fun-filled game.

Basketball playing is a part of the girls' gym class as well as boys'.

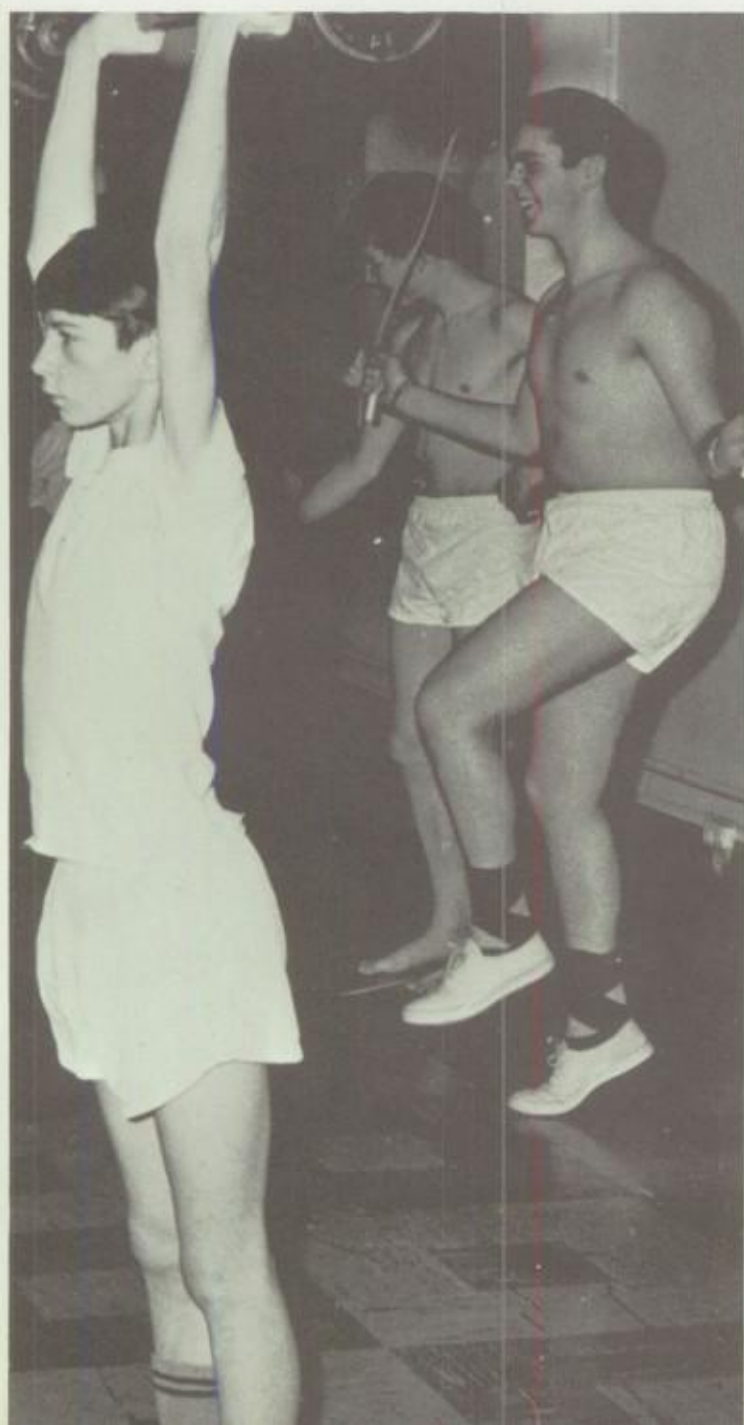

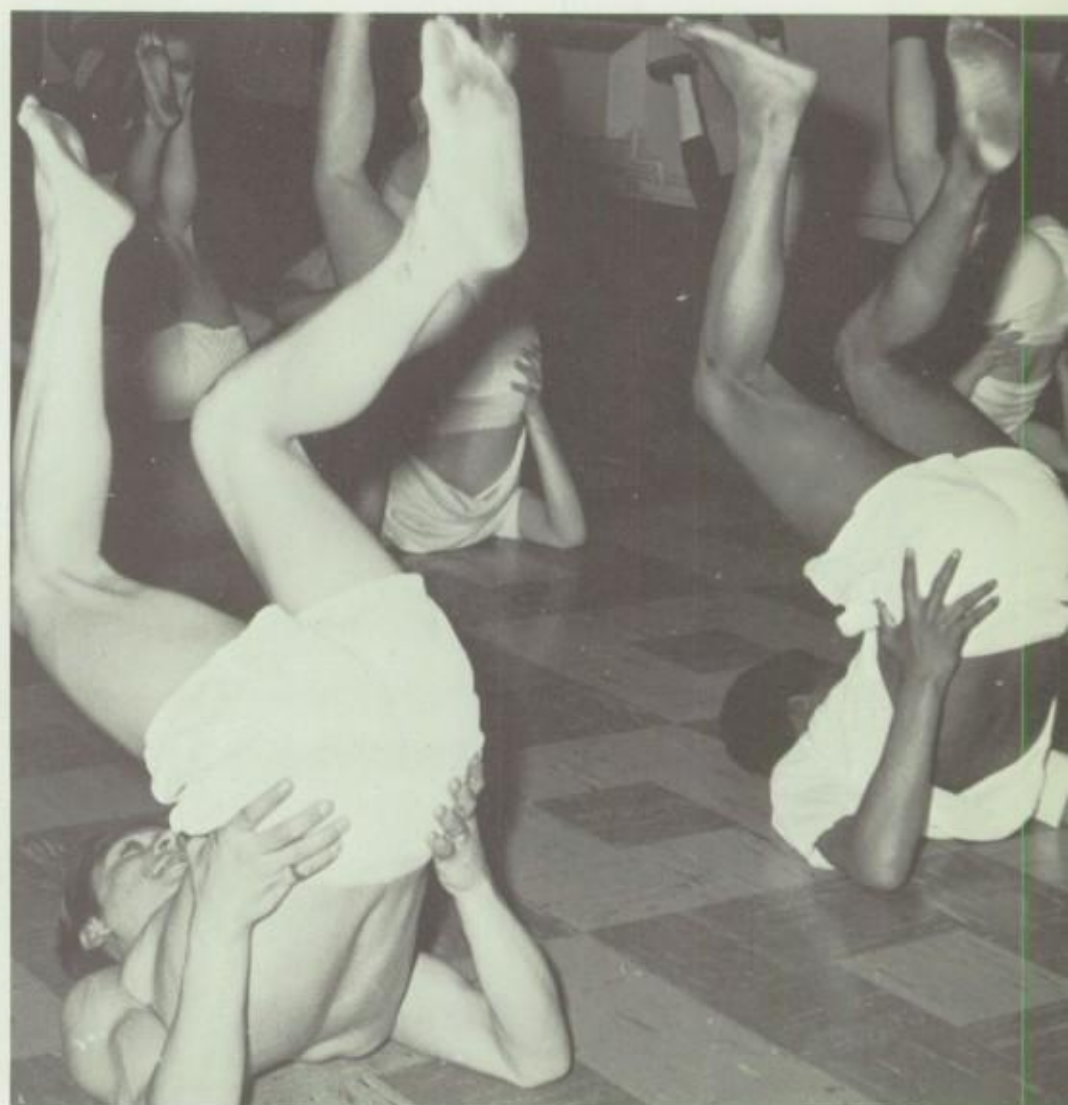

Physical Education Develops Strong Bodies

Push-ups are a part of the warm up exercises.

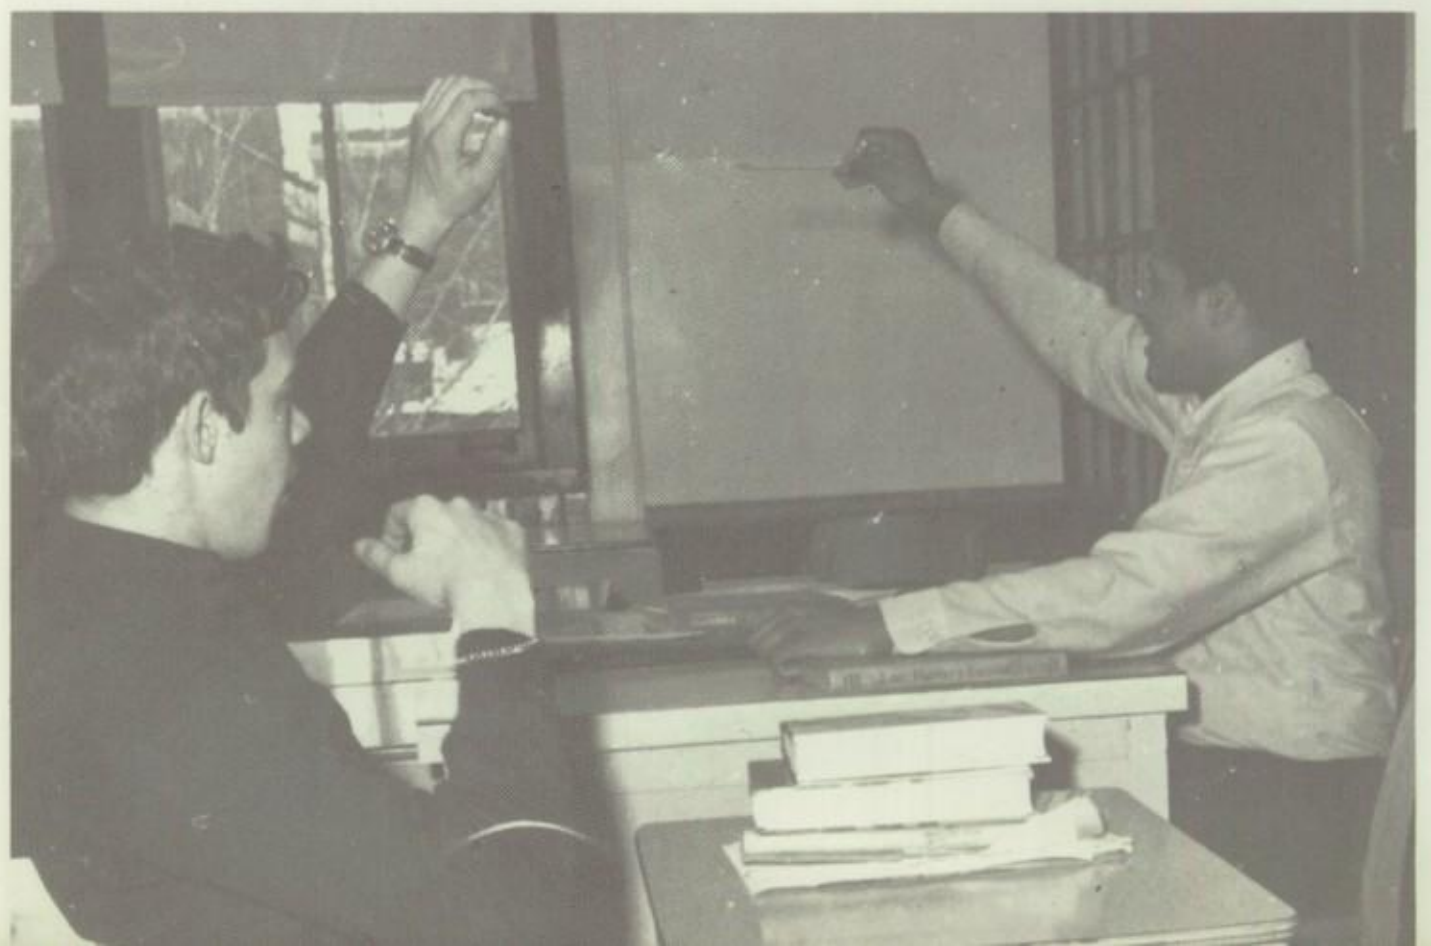

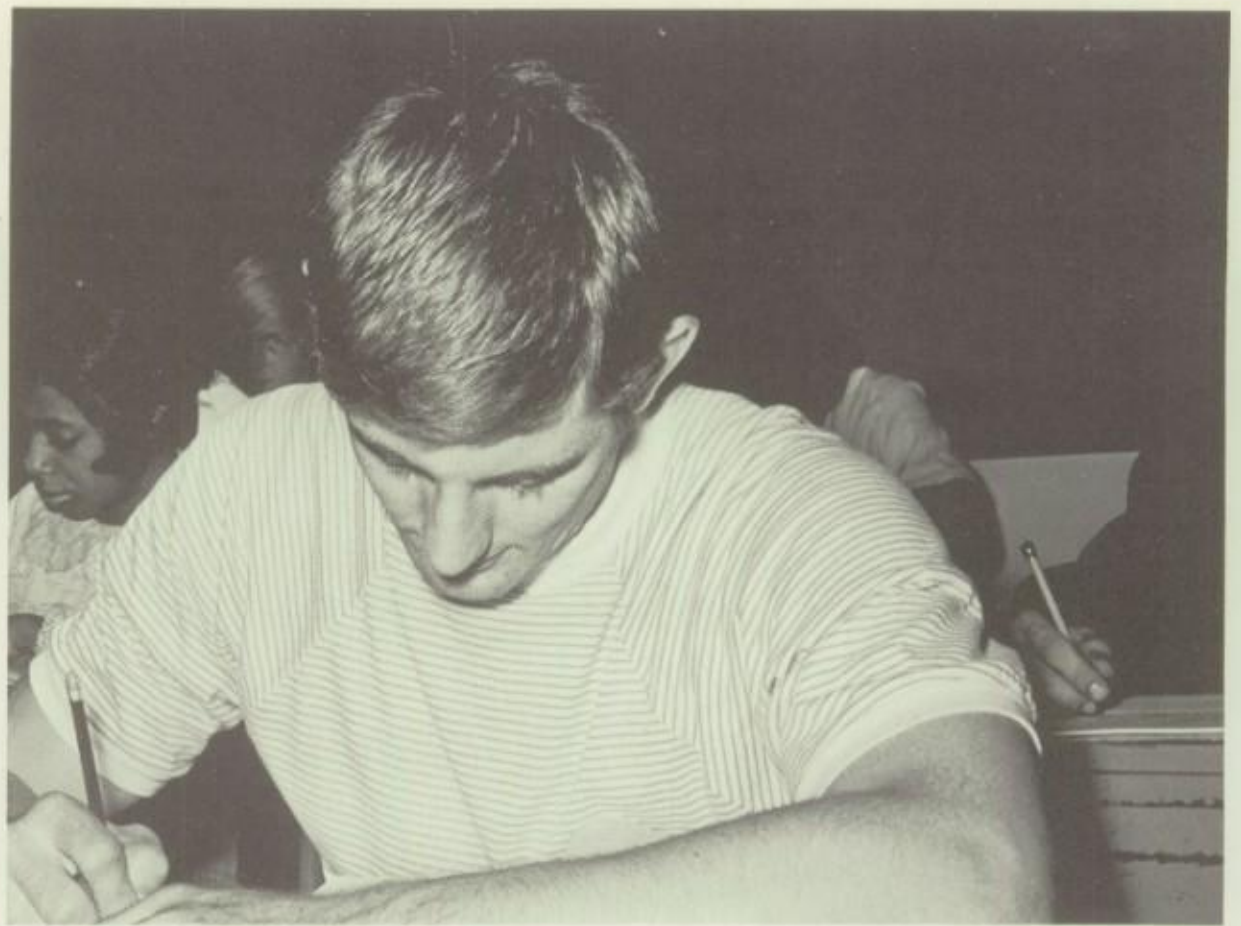

Our boys lift barbells to keep their bodies fit.

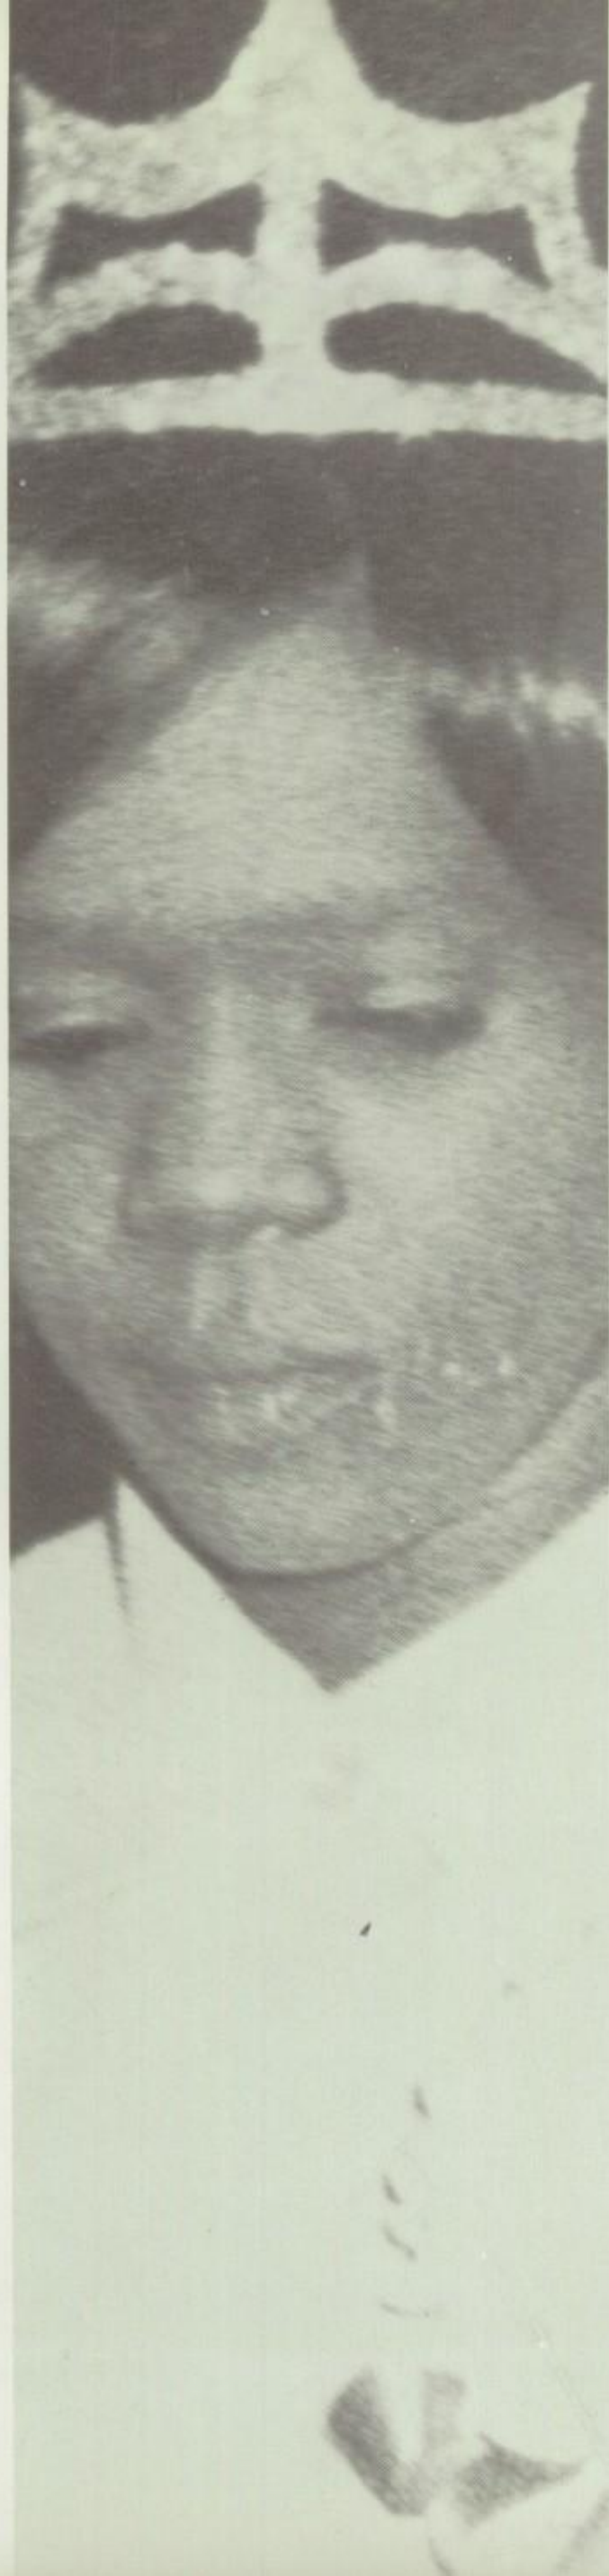

Bicycle rides are strenuous but fun.

The past student activities of Central High School have been formed in the shining tradition which has been upheld through the generations of students. Each class added its own unique contribution to this tradition at Central.

The many activities sponsored at Central have always been strongly supported by students and faculty alike. That is one secret of our proud tradition. Support is needed and in our history it has always been given with enthusiasm.

Numerous clubs were formed; some have phased out and others have carried on. A few of the past activities include:

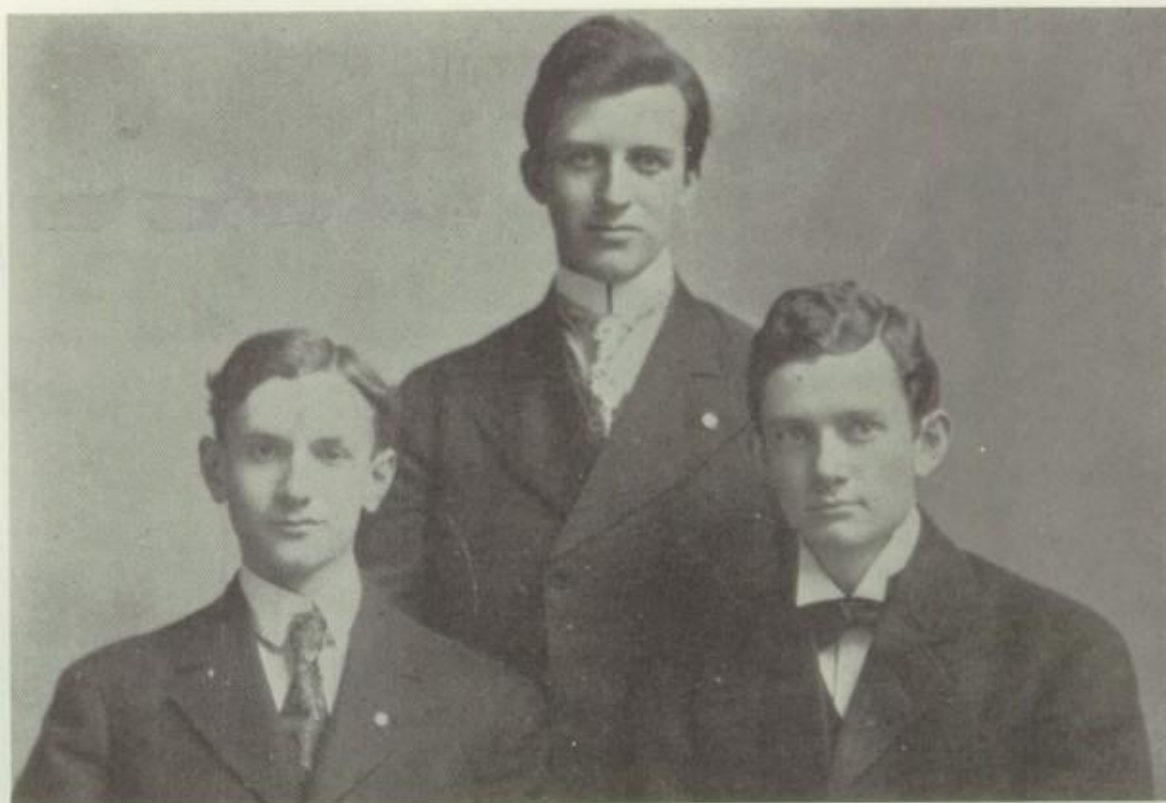

Service organizations, such as S.P.U.R., Handy Andy, Amigos. These were girls' clubs serving the school and community by sponsoring dances, actively supporting the local Red Cross, and advertising drama productions (among other things). Clubs, such as the Comets and the Smilers were boys' service clubs backing student sports and projects. All these clubs helped to develop leadership and initiative in its members.

There were clubs to further the education of the student. The Chicago Exam Team, Typing Club, Quill and Scroll, and the Latin Club are examples of such organizations of the past.

Clubs which showed some outside interests of the students were the Magic Club, Harmonica Club, Projectionists Club, Tumblers, Keora Club (a hiking club) and Beaux Art, for the art-minded student.

These few examples of Central's past traditions show the great interest which the students shared in their friends and their school. There could be no greater feeling of pride in a school than that feeling of a person who has participated in the activities at Central High School and truly knows what that tradition is about.

"I Will Keep Faith"

Keeping the Central spirit at its traditionally high level and giving a boost to all school activities was the 1969-70 Booster Club. Mr. Dorwin Nelson sponsored the club this year, with the club officers working in close association with him. Among the many duties of the club were the weekly ribbon sales, making the hall banners, selling bookstore supplies and providing the athletic trophies that were awarded to the most valuable athletes. Arrangements for the annual football and basketball homecomings and for pep assembly exchanges with the other high schools were made by the Booster Club. The club's continuous dedication to the school united school spirit.

Mr. Dorin Nelson, sponsor of Booster Club, looks up to Stan Paluszewski, President, often for advice.

Booster Club officers were Stanley Paluszewski, President; Shelia Vaz, Treasurer; Thelma McCain, Vice-President, and Dorine Blake, Secretary.

Pageantry and Suspense

Central's last Football Queen was crowned during the traditional Central-Adams football game. Between halves, members of both courts were led onto the field by their escorts for the final time. After all introductions were made and suspense had reached its peak, the queen, Liz Horan, was announced. Upholding tradition, the two queens faced each other and exchanged roses ending the homecoming events with Central's long standing dignity and pride.

Highlighting the basketball season was the Homecoming game between Central and Washington. Standing on the basketball floor, the eight girls of the 1970 Basketball Queens' Court waited with anticipation. When Pat Bethel was announced as queen, we knew that Central had been well-represented in their last year.

The 1969-70 Basketball Homecoming Queen is . . . Pat Bethel.

The 1970 Student Council has symbolized the democratic process that has been a great attribute to Central's past. Our Student Council officers guided the council members through a very active and prosperous year. The council accomplished many of their annual projects such as the student directories, Thanksgiving baskets, and promoting student-faculty relationships. Accepting the responsibilities of leadership, the Central Student Council worked with the LaSalle Council to help better relationships and make the 1971 merger between schools easier. These successful projects united the entire student body as they worked together toward a common goal.

Helping to maintain an efficient student government were the Student Council officers Dennis Randles, Vice-President; Barb Milon, President; Judy Driver, Treasurer; Ruby Daniels, Secretary.

Freshman Orientation Assembly sponsored by Student Council.

The officers and executive board of the 1969-70 Student Council guided the Central student body in the processes of an effective student government. The year began with the Freshman Orientation assembly, which introduced the green freshmen to many of the schools' activities. The Student Council executive board, which was made up of several different committees, like the elections committee, juke-box committee, and the student directory committee, was under the direction of Mr. Robert Clements. Meeting every other Wednesday morning, the Student Council planned their activities and discussed problems facing students at Central now and for the following year. The Council's officers and executive board have kept the traditional democratic process in the Centralites' lives this year, showing leadership and responsibility.

The 1969-70 Varsity Cheerleaders were Lesley Fiedler and Sue DeWitte (STANDING), Brenda Martin, Pat Bethal, Doris Span, and Liz Horan.

Brenda Martin and Lesley Fiedler

Giving the student body a spiritual example of how to back the Bears was the 1970 Varsity and B-team cheerleaders. In the auditorium or at the games, the entire student body was quick to respond to the yells of the Central cheerleaders.

Under the supervision of Miss Mathews, the cheerleading squad practiced early in the morning and during the summer at Leeper Park. They also worked hard for better school spirit and more interest at the games. Whether we won or lost, the cheerleaders kept the Central enthusiasm alive and proved themselves to be one of the best squads in Central's history. Much attention at pep assemblies and games was given to the Central Bear, Alvin Levy, and the "Ziggy man," Dan Schoen. They, along with the cheerleaders, made Central High School's last year the greatest.

Participation in clubs has taught Central students cooperation. Club activities gave Centralites the opportunity to increase their circle of friends, besides meeting other students in class. Satisfying students' interests, clubs varied from Human Relations Club to Barnstormers. Meeting once every other week on Wednesday mornings, club members made plans for their moneymaking projects and planned activities for the future. Debate, Art Service Club, and Future Teachers' Club are some of the other clubs that students had the opportunity to join. The clubs differed in their projects but each club had its same goal—keeping Central's last year full of spirit.

Central's 15 Revues Brought Artistic and Financial Success

The name making drama history at Central began in 1941 with the senior class' first revue "Have Times Changed" or "The Evolution of Evalina." Under the direction of Mr. James Casaday the revue was a triumphant success. The South Bend Tribune had this to say—"This is the first time that a production of the revue type has been attempted and also it is the first time that a senior class has written its own play. The success of the present effort should encourage its continuation on an annual basis."

The advice was taken and from then on annually Mr. Casaday, Barnstormers, and the seniors produced their original revues. During the war years the revues dealt with the topic at hand. "Now" produced in 1943 was a satirical exposition of the cause of war and a demonstration of the resources which might have been developed to meet it. The propaganda Sisters were a part of this revue, they represented over-confidence filled with rumor and doubt. Immediately following "—And Then" was produced. A mock United Nations with all the major countries and people involved in the beginning of the organization. The "Lady in Mauve," a polite mystery melodrama, was the 4th revue.

"Have a Heart" A Valentine was the fifth revue produced Feb. 14-15-16, 1946. Fitting the season to the revue resulted in a successful presentation.

The Atomic Age was beginning and with this the group produced its 6th revue, "Atom and Eve," a combination Dog Patch and the Garden of Eden.

The Seventh revue "How Deep is the Ocean" was an original sea extravaganza. This play included everything fishy from Neptune's Sanctomb to Davy Jones Locker, Harpies, Sirens, Vikings and Mermaids.

Greek gods and goddesses dancing to the "Twelfth Street Rag" and "Sabre Dance," along with numbers from the great operas was blended in the 8th revue "A-Musing," built on the 9 muses. The stage spectacle was so lavish and varied in mood, and the performances of high caliber that the effect was one constant wonder that this could have been achieved in a public school.

"Let's Talk Turkey" was presented in preparation for Thanksgiving Day. This included scenes at the farm, the Shooing, Grandmother's dinner, and the nightmare that resulted from an extremely over-stuffed stomach. Syd Pollack played Tom Turkey.

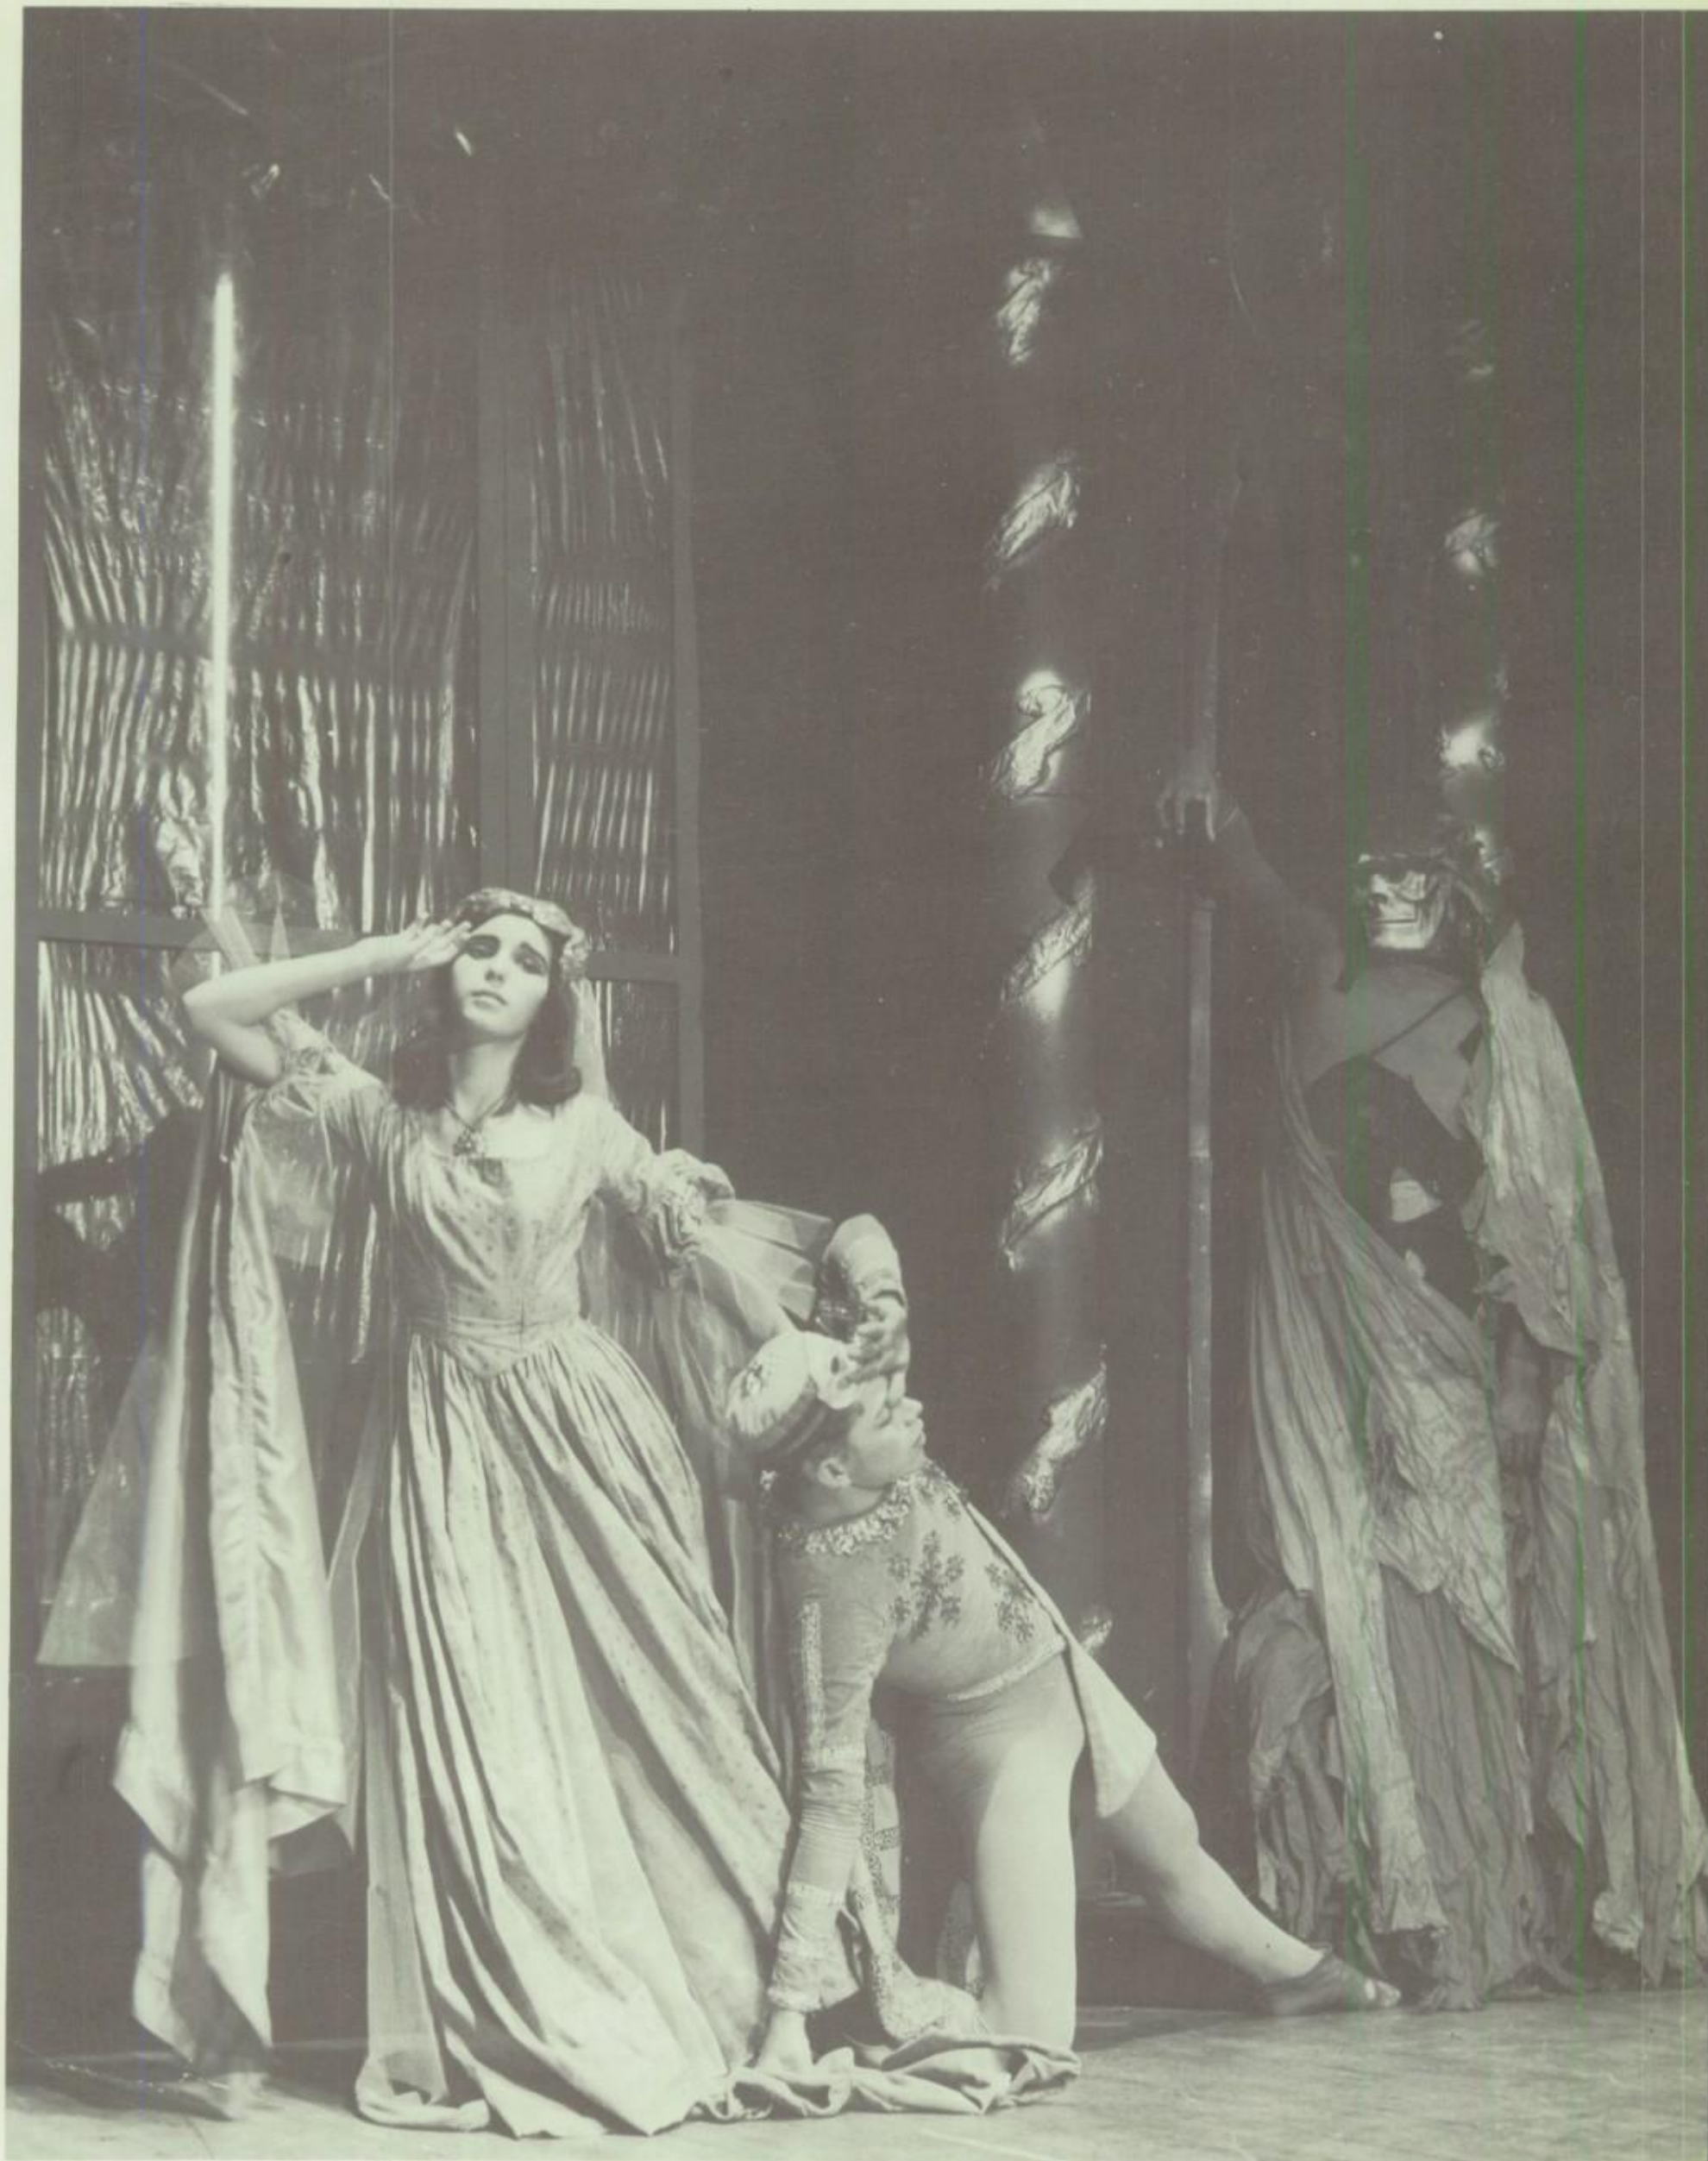

The 10th revue was the Anniversary revue "Central Standard Time." It was written about eras ten years apart beginning in 1951 and going back in 1871 with the first commencement. The revue commemorated many important points in Central's history, and showed the different periods such as the Jazz and Ragtime Era, bringing the characteristic song, dances, and mannerisms of each. Verie Saurer of Interlude fame was a leading character.

In 1956, the senior class and Barnstormers turned Sinbad of the "Thousand and One Night" into an American Sailor, in their boisterous revue "Sinbad 1956." Sinbad plunges into one adventure after another which made the revue a colorful and often timely production.

The Indiana Dunes, subject of volumes on their beauty and wonders and columns of newspaper space in "Save the Dunes" campaign, was the topic of the 1962 revue "Sand and Steel." Produced in eight scenes.

1965 brought a potpourri selected from the life and letters of Edgar Allen Poe in the revue "Poe." As Poe succeeded in frightening his readers, so Mr. Casaday scored a success in scaring his audience. There were corpse-coffins and along with good lightning and thunder sound effects to send chills up the spines of those in attendance. The Masque of the Red Death, Gold Bug and the Fall of the House of Usher. The next to the last revue in 1967 "Saint Patrick's" significance is put forth as he converts Ireland to Christianity, while Part II leaned more to the qualities Americans traditionally attribute to the Irish. It was full of dancing, singing and merriment. Richard Brinsley Sheredaus play, St. Patrick's Day or the Scheming Lieutenant was given a musical setting in the Jeanette McDonald, Nelson Eddy operetta style. Our fifteenth Revue was Alice '68 which was a Mod treatment of Alice in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass with psychedelic lighting and sets.

Masque of the Red Death, 1965 with Ruth Freeman Smith and Mark Shannon who is a featured player off-Broadway's Sal Mineo's production of Fortune In Men's Eyes.

The George Davidson Award

(The Barnstormer Drama Award)

George Davidson graduated in the January Class of 1943 from Central High School where he had been very active in both Glee Club and Barnstormers. He was chairman of the Barnstormer Board his senior year. He stuttered badly but found when he knew his lines or songs this never occurred.

Tentative plans were under way for a production of Everyman, the old morality classic for the spring semester of '43 with George Davidson in the role of Everyman. He was drafted as soon as he graduated in January. I interceded by speaking to a member of his draft board, who also served on the school board, because of George's stuttering, high tensions, violent temper, and January graduation; I asked for his deferment until that June. I got reclassified 1A for my effort. He was assigned to a mule pack, and in less than a year was in active service in Europe. He had written to me quite regularly during his military training. I received the last letter he was known to have written. It was after the second Battle of the Bulge. I remember those words, particularly from this last letter, "There isn't enough Happiness in the World to make up for all the suffering these people have been through. I don't know what day it is or what week—and I don't care ..." This was in 1944. Shortly after this he was listed as killed. His brother investigated and found that George had driven a superior officer to the P.X. in a jeep. When the officer returned, he found George slumped over a gun. The butt of the gun had been placed on the floor of the jeep. It had been discharged, accidentally or not, we have never known. He was twenty.

The George Davidson Award was set up in his memory to be given to the outstanding boy and girl who had contributed the most to Drama in their four years at Central.

The 1970 recipient is Nancy Ross, a Junior whose three years of service have made her eligible seeing as this is our final year.

Always on the job, the 1970 yearbook staff has worked diligently to meet the several deadlines. Designing lay-outs, writing copy and the headlines, and taking candid snapshots, captured not only the great memories of this year but also the years past. Accepting this challenge, the staff followed a strict and demanding schedule, seeking to produce a product with past quality. On the spot photographer captured interesting and often times embarrassing situations. Working on the yearbook staff has opened the field of journalism to many students. The staff took pride in their responsibility enjoying their work and they were relieved and filled with satisfaction for having completed a well done job. Few students realize the efforts which enabled the yearbook's existence. However, the staff was aware that the yearbook was not a spur of the moment venture.

With the help of Mr. Garner Marvin, the yearbook advisor, the entire staff strived to capture the never ending spirit of Central High School.

The job of informing the students has gone to the Interlude newspaper. This important part of the Central scene is under the direction of Miss Korb, with the staff always on the spot to give first class coverage of events. Seeking to produce a product consistent with past quality, the staff worked constantly to meet printing deadlines. The newspaper has been a good experience for those students who were interested in journalism. They realized the hard work that had to go into each issue. Every two weeks the paper was distributed, containing articles ranging from current news to gossip. Whatever the topic, it was written expertly by one of the staff's dedicated reporters.

More
Memories

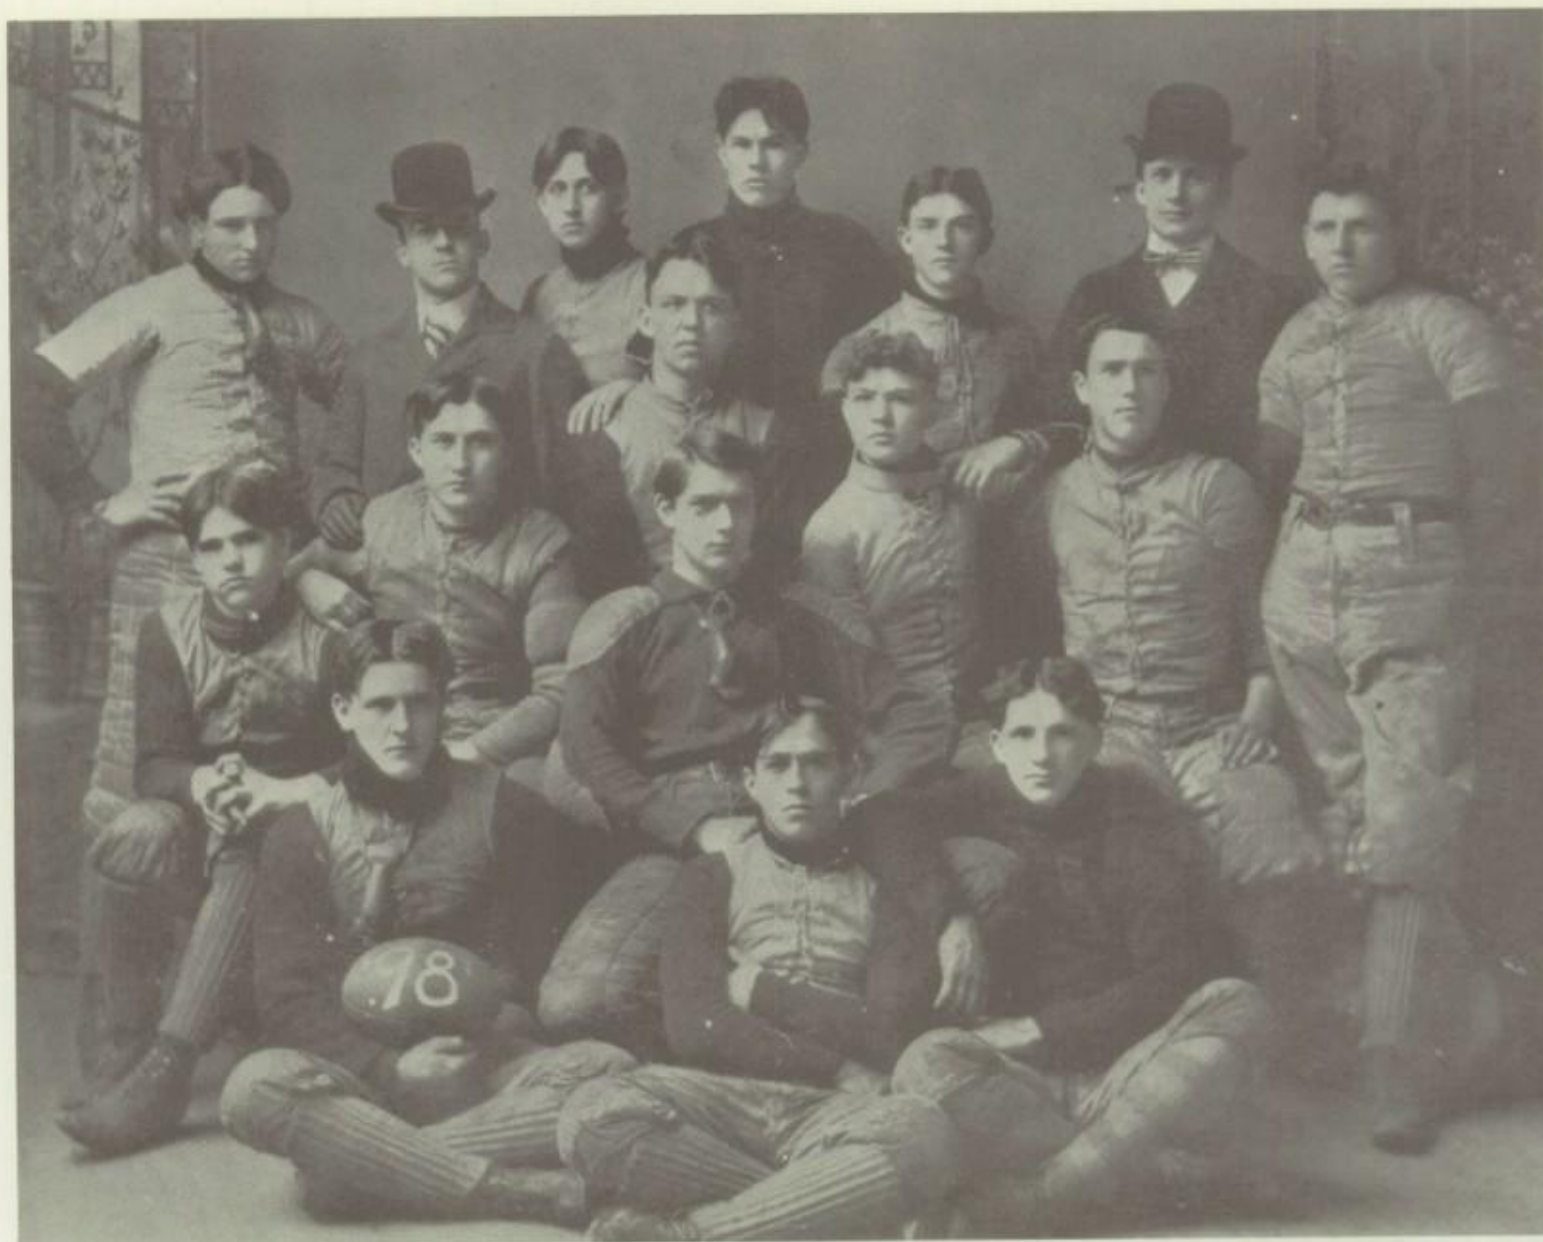

Soon Central High School will fade away, but our thoughts of it will never die. The precious moments we experienced will always be a part of us. The spirit was evident, whether at our games, pep assemblies, or walking down the halls. The pride and unity of the students could always be seen. As a result, our motto "I Will Keep Faith" was lived up to by the student body and faculty.

Fight men fight . . . men from Central Senior High, fight men fight. Starting in the early 1890's through the decades to the present day this cheer has led many Central teams on to victory. The Bears' winning had its beginning in 1900's when the Central track team won the High School Meet.

Central's halls are filled with the trophies and banners of all the winning teams that have played for Central. Some of these great teams are: the 1929 wrestling team winning the Conference Championship, the 1934 baseball team winning the N.I.H.S.C. Championship, and the 1958 football team winning the State Championship and the N.I.H.S.C. Championship.

Players, coaches, faculty and students have always thought of Central's success in sports with great pride. To the end the Central Bears fought to uphold the motto, "I will keep faith."

Roland Ellis throws a key block to spring fullback Carl Jenkins lose from a Goshen defender.

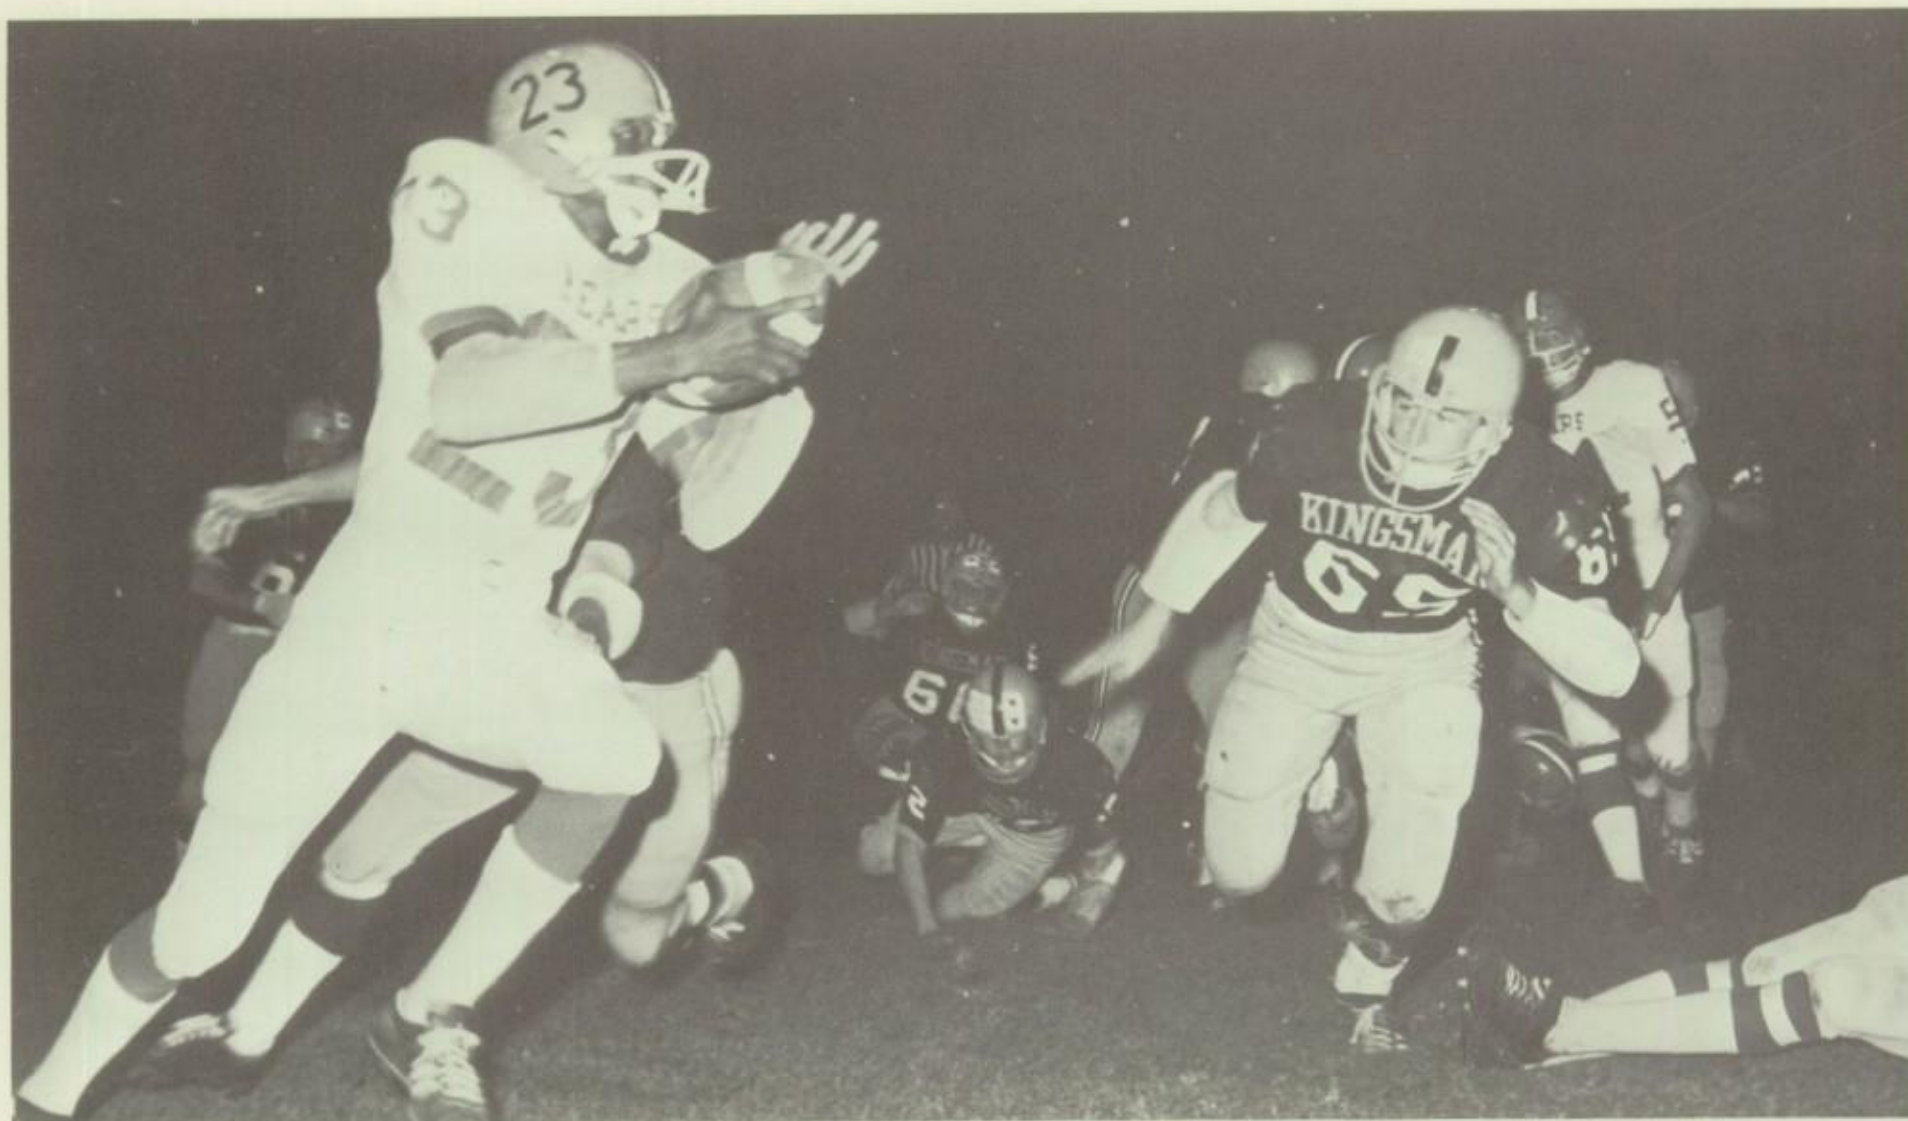

The 1969 Central Bears football record of 0-8 was not a story of success—the result of several factors. Injuries and a squad that was small in numbers and in size hindered the Bears. The competition was tough, but the Bears continually fought to the end, under the coaching staff, newly headed by Coach Michael Sacchine.

Starting with Clay and Goshen, the Bears dropped two close games 6-0 and 9-6. In the last part of each game the Bears gained momentum but time soon ran out. In the Goshen game the Bears scored on a 45-yard Greg Bogunia to Larry Harvell pass in the closing minutes.

Although the following games against Adams, Elkhart, Penn, Michigan City and Washington were all losses, the Bears never stopped trying. Even though the Bears weren't winners, the boys on the team gained a lot of experience playing both offensive and defensive positions, due to the lack of players. With talented blockers and ball handlers like Glenn Powell, James Husband, Greg Bogunia and Bob Williams, the team was lacking only in size.

The Bears ended the season with a 34-13 loss to Mihsawaka on October 25. This game was highlighted by a special tribute to former Central players and coaches at halftime. A sizeable number of graduates were also present in the crowds for the ceremonies.

This season ended one of the most glorious histories in Indiana high school football. Central's football teams will be remembered throughout the state for a long time to come.

The 1969 Cross-Country team improved over last years team. Coached by Bill Schlundt, in his eighth year with the team, they compiled a record of two wins and twelve losses. They placed eighth in the South Bend Community School Corporation and fifteenth in the Sectionals. Mark Wozniak was named the most valuable player on the team.

Again this year, lack of depth hurt our team. A small total of eight runners composed this years team. The top three runners were Mark Wozniak, Neal Wozniak, and John Hess, with average times of 10 minutes and 43 seconds, 10 minutes and 57 seconds, and 11 minutes and 9 seconds, respectively. Second year letterman, John Hess, was the captain.

At the City Meet, Mark Wozniak placed eleventh out of fifty-three runners and sixteenth in the Sectionals. His brother, Neal, placed twenty-third in the City Meet and thirty-ninth in the Sectionals, out of one hundred and five.

The major award winners were Mark Wozniak, Neal Wozniak, John Hess, and Dave Coleman. The "B" team award winners were Jim Hanslits, Greg Schoen, Ken Schoen, and Brian Snyder. The most improved runners were listed as Mark Wozniak, Neal Wozniak, and John Hess.

Calvin Hubbard puts a shot up while Larry Harvell and Kent Allison battle for position.

Injuries and ineligibility hampered the Central Bears' 1969-70 varsity basketball team. Under the direction of Coach Leonakis the Bears began their final season with an 83 to 51 win over Clay. Captained by Calvin Hubbard, a very good rebounder, the Bears compiled a 14-6 record. The team worked hard and well together on the basketball court relying on speed and defense.

Following the Clay game the Bears won the next three games against St. Joseph (72-67), Hammond (68-48), and Jackson (92-67). Michigan City pinned the first loss of the season on the Bears, 82-62. The Bears were in the game against City all the way until the final few minutes of the last quarter. Calvin Hubbard and Kent Allison both had 18 points and Larry Harvell had 14 points in this game.

The Bears just got past the Wildcats (Riley) and won 83-82 in a tight game. Kent Allison's 24 points, Calvin Hubbard's 23 points, and Jim Webb's 16 points won the game.

In Central's homecoming game Washington's Panthers fell to the Bears 97-77. Anderson, Mishawaka, and Gary Andean were defeated by the Bears next. In the Mishawaka game, Kent Allison scored 30 points.

The score of the Elkhart game was 96-79. During the half, alumni, old players, and coaches were introduced to fans.

The B-team and freshman basketball teams had records of 10-2, and 17-2 this final season. The Central Freshman basketball team, coached by Mr. James Waller, proved that they were the top team in the area by avenging a loss in beating Jackson to win the local Freshman Tournament.

All three teams ended the season with records to be proud of, making Central's last year one to remember.

B-team members are: R. Wilson, K. Thomas, D. Coleman, E. White, D. Sanders, Coach William Fuerbringer.

The 1969-70 Wrestling team's main problem this year was to find grapplers who could wrestle in the upper divisions. The seven returning lettermen, who included Randall Harmon, 95 lbs.; Dwight Sanders, 103 lbs.; and Larry Anderson, who is one of the state's top wrestlers, 112 lbs.; all qualified in the lower wrestling division.

In mid-season the wrestlers took a 1-5-1 record, coached by Coach Fuerbringer. The first win of the season was against Clay by a 28-26 score. In the City Holiday Tourney, Central tied for fourth with 42 points, (Washington won the meet with 112 points). The matmen have stayed in nearly every meet, even though there was no one to wrestle in the top two weight divisions. Thus the Bears began every meet ten points behind.

The Bears finished seventh with 29 points in the Northern Indiana Conference. Making it to the semi-final round for the matmen were Ray Anderson at 101 pounds and Ken Freeman at 148 pounds.

Sectional wrestling action found one Central grappler winning. Larry Anderson, at 118 pounds, won his division title and advanced to the Portage Regional. Larry is considered one of the top wrestlers in Indiana and has been a main stay of Central's team in its last years.

Holiday Tournament 4th

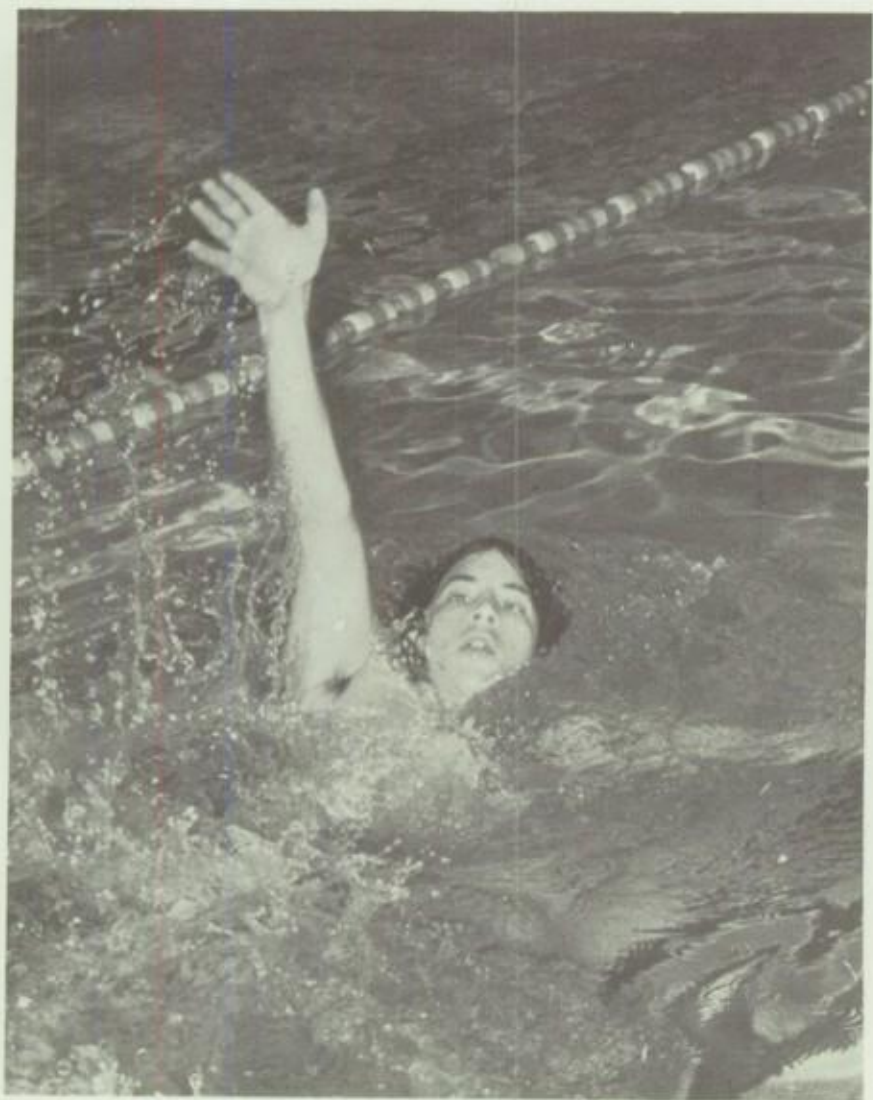

Conference 7th

Ray Anderson works to pin Randall Harmon.

Members of 1969-70 Swim team are: FIRST ROW: M. Milon, D. Altman, J. Fisher, J. Altman, P. Ainley, and Coach Norm Schmid. SECOND ROW: Manager S. Rulli, L. Dunn, C. Haber, G. Anderson, S. Lane and Manager R. Cholaj.

Captain Dan Altman works out in the 100 yard backstroke.

The 1969-70 Central Swim team, under the direction of Coach Schmid, suffered this year because of a lack of members. The tankers times and efforts were not outstanding (although they were encouraging).

In the season's opening, Coach Schmid divided the tankers into two teams for intra-squad meets to aid the team in practice. The opposing team captains were Jack Dosmann and Dan Altman. With the help of rough practices, the swimmers began to shape up considerably. They lost their first meet of the season to Clay. However, the Bears did take five first places out of nine first places in the individual events. The Bears ended the season with a 0-12 record.

In the South Bend Swimming Sectional, the Bears scored only one point. Dan Altman's sixth place finish in the 50 yard freestyle. Evidently, a win was hard to come by, but nevertheless, the team still had spirit and the desire to win, always they kept faith.

Anyone Fore Golf?

The 1969 golf team, under the direction of Mr. Dorwin Nelson, placed 14th in the sectionals. Captained by senior Mark Schubert, the team went through an unfortunate winless Northern Indiana Conference season.

On May 13, the Indiana High School golf sectional for the South Bend area was played at Michigan City. The Bears finished in a tie for fourteenth place with West Central. There were a total of twenty teams competing. However, the Bears would have finished in a tie for sixteenth place had several other ties been played out. The Bears beat Glenn by seventeen strokes, North Liberty by thirty-nine strokes, and Oregon-Davis by fifty-one strokes. This is quite deceiving because these three teams had exceptionally high scores.

Husband Takes Fifth in Regionals

James Husband sails off the board during the City Meet.

Although Central's track team went through a winless season, they finished sixth in the Northern Indiana Conference track meet with 18 points. In each meet the Bears were hard hit by a lack of depth, and therefore the scores of the meets were not indicative of what the Bears could do. At the Conference, Maurice Aldridge got a 3rd place in the high jump, as did James Husband in the one hundred eighty yard low hurdles. Husband, the only Central winner in the Mishawaka sectional, got a 1st in the long jump by leaping twenty feet and seven and three quarter inches, which enabled him to advance to the Gary regionals and then to the finals at Indianapolis.

Opening against Penn, Coach Schlundt relied heavily on his non-lettermen, Maurice Aldridge, Roland Ellis, John Hess, and Arthur Moore. However, the team based their hopes for winning meets on four returning lettermen, Casey Jackson, James Husband, Wilford Love, and Art Lax.

This year's last track team was not too successful, as far as a won-loss record goes, but the boys gathered a lot of vital experience necessary for team improvement.

Wilford Love breaks from the blocks at the start of the 100 yard dash.

Baserunner Mike Richardson alertly dives back into first base to avoid the tag.

The 1969 varsity baseball team under the direction of Coach Lou Newbold ended the season with a record of 11-6. The Bears won the Northern Indiana Conference Championship by defeating Riley 4-3. Leading the Bears attack were Steve Nemeth and Kevin Murphy with three hits and Rich Rozek who hit a first inning homerun.

The Bears started the season off by beating Michigan City 4-1. Mark Anderson won the Washington game (2-1) pitching a wonderful two-hit, one run ball game. The Bears got another sweep by defeating the Mishawaka Cavemen twice, 4-1 and 6-4. Marty Rose and Nicolson each had two hits and Tom Davis hit a three-run homer.

Although the team was hampered by injuries in the season's opening and possessing a pitching staff of one (Rich Rozek) the batmen had a great team. The co-captains of the team were Rich Rozek and Marty Rose. The returning lettermen for the team included the whole infield comprised of Danny Smith, Kevin Murphy, Steve Nemeth, and Jim Garges. The starting game's batteries of the year were Rich Rozek and Marty Rose.

Outfielder Robert Nicholson waits for the pitch. Nicholson batted .382 for the season.

six hours a day!

Your little brother would be delighted. But can you imagine having only one TV channel, and then having that one run whatever its owners happened to feel like running, no matter what the public wanted, or what the ratings said?

Fortunately, America runs on the free enterprise system; the system that says "If you don't like something, switch off to something else."

The same system applies to goods and services, from automobiles to dry cleaning. Competition between products creates new ideas, keeps prices down. Those that reach the top must work to stay there. And it's the people who buy the goods and services who make the decisions; not the manufacturers, not the government.

It's a good system; far better and more productive than any other that man has been able to devise.

TWO CARS IN ONE

An open and closed car combined

STUDEBAKER Duplex—a closed and open car combined. An entirely new-type car—developed by Studebaker and available from no other maker.

It is the most sensational—most talked-of car in America.

One minute you are enjoying the comfort and protection of a closed car—next the unhindered freedom that made the open car so popular. And the change can be made in 30 seconds by simply lowering the roller side enclosures.

Yet with all this two-fold convenience the Duplex-Phaeton sells for no more than an open car.

See this car that has definitely solved the open-closed car problem.
